William C. Grebe was born in Philipsburg, Pa., October 6th, 1908, and died at Camp Meade, July 15th, 1925, a member of Company "I", U. S. Infantry, in the Citizens' Military Training Camp. He was a Junior in the Philipsburg High School, a faithful student and genial classmate. Four years ago he joined the Presbyterian Church and was an active worker in both Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Society. He was acting Assistant Scoutmaster in Troop 5 of the Boy Scouts in Philipsburg, popular for his lovable disposition and fine spirit of co-operation. Impressive services marked the military funeral at Camp Meade and in his home town the entire community gathered to show respect for a young man, who in every capacity of son, brother, student, classmate, church member and scoutmaster, had won the high regard of all who knew him. His devotion to country was fittingly marked by the participation of the American Legion Post at his interment. His memory remains a source of inspiration to his fellows.

THE STORY OF THE CAMPS

The significance of the Citizens' Military Training Camps cannot be fully appreciated by any one. Those young men know it best, perhaps, who have attended the camps during the past five years, one hundred and twenty-five thousand of them in forty training centers from Maine to California and from the Canadian border to the Gulf.

These young men went from home and school, from farm, office and factory. Many went to training points well-known in the days of '17 and '18—Devens, Meade, Plattsburg, McClellan, Knox, Custer and Lewis. Others gathered at regular army posts, McKinley, DuPont, Benjamin Harrison, Snelling, Des Moines, Leavenworth, Jefferson Barracks, Sam Houston, Bliss, Crockett, Logan, Douglas, Wright and Del Monte. Some journeyed for special training in the Artillery to Madison Barracks, Bragg and Sill, in the Cavalry to Ethan Allen, Oglethorpe, Russell and Huachuca, in the Signal Corps to Camp Vail or for coast defense work to many stations from Fort Adams to Fort Scott. They remember their emotions when enrolling; they remember the varied experiences of camp life; but only by the introspection which comes with years will they realize the full value of the lessons there received. Fathers and mothers whose sons went to the CMTC welcomed them back more vigorous in mind and body, but they are hardly conscious of the years during which army officers and civilians joined in thought and work for the success of the Citizens' Camps.

A great vision filled the mind of Leonard Wood, when as Major General and Chief-of-Staff, he proposed and directed the first camps in the summer of 1913 at Gettysburg and Monterey. These were college camps intended primarily to arouse an interest in the subject of National Defense. President Wilson endorsed them for their contribution also to physical health and character. The first Business and Professional men's camps, organized in 1915 and 1916 at Plattsburg and a dozen other training points from New York to California, were the forerunners of the Officers' Training Camps of 1917 and 1918.

After the Armistice there was revived the thought, cherished by Leonard Wood at Plattsburg, of voluntary camps which would train young men to the obligations and privileges of citizenship. Graduates of the "Plattsburg" camps had organized the Military Training Camps Association in 1916 and thus established an agency which performed during the World War effective work in co-operation with the War Department. Mindful of the benefits which they received through their voluntary training and wishing to pass this opportunity on to a younger generation, the members of the Association suggested in 1920 the establishment of Citizens' Military Training Camps. Congressional appropriation was secured sufficient to enable the War Department to open ten camps in 1921 with an enrollment of nearly 11,000 men.

The great success of these camps won immediate popular approval. In agreement with public opinion Congress provided for the training of 20,000 young men in 1922, for 25,000 in 1923, for 33,000 in 1924 and for 35,000 in 1925. The Secretary of War has recommended increased attendance year by year as Congress may provide the means. He says, "I hope that the time is not far distant when every young man in the country will look forward seriously and expectantly to his attendance at this institution for the molding of men."

President Harding did not live to realize the hope which he expressed in 1920, "to see established, during my administration, a comprehensive system of voluntary military training for at least one hundred thousand men each year." The Citizens' Camps continue to receive notable support from the White House. President Coolidge declares them "an essential in the plan of national security," and says, "I hope that each year an increasing number of young men will take advantage of the opportunity which is afforded them." In his inspection of the camps throughout the country during several years General Pershing noted that the men "grow more aggressive, more confident; they get the spirit of leadership and initiative and in every way become better able to meet the problems of everyday life." He has recently added that of all the various activities carried on under the direction of the War Department none has met with greater public approval than the Citizens' Military Training Camps.

JOHN W. WEEKS

The reason is not far to seek. The CMTC are, in the words of President Coolidge, "essentially schools in citizenship". They are, it is true, an indispensable factor in the maintenance of the National Defense Act. They are contributing an important percentage to the membership of the Officers' Reserve Corps. But above all, the men, who have attended the camps, have carried to every community of the United States a new reverence for the flag, coupled with high determination to do their duty as citizens. Patriotism and devotion to country are the first fruits of the Citizens' Camps and these qualities are backed by physical vigor, mental alertness and a higher sense of responsibility.

Camps are open to young men, physically and mentally sound, between the ages of 17 and 24, in a four-year sequence, entitled, Basic, Red, White and Blue Courses. All necessary expenses are paid by the Government and the camps are so distributed throughout the country as to make them easy of access in every section. Military instruction is given for the first year in the Infantry only, but thereafter, at the choice of the candidate, in the Infantry, Cavalry, Engineers, Artillery or Signal Corps. The schedule gives to military drill the morning hours. Afternoons are devoted to physical training, to a great variety of athletic sports and to systematic instruction, by lectures, conferences and discussions, in the principles of good citizenship. Evening recreation is generously provided through moving pictures, concerts, amateur dramatics, dances and indoor games in theatres, clubs and hostess houses.

The contribution of the Citizens' Camps to the physical well being of the country is something difficult to estimate. This year fifty thousand young men lessening individual initiative or responsibility. Teamwork on the drill field is matched by teamwork in athletic sports and games and by social give-and-take in recreation hours. Many a shy lad who never seemed to fit in with his fellows at home has discovered at camp for the first time the joys of comradeship through participation in the varied activities of the training period. On the other hand, many an arrogant and self-assertive youth has learned here his first effective lesson in mutual consideration and respect for others' rights. Plain honesty in thought, word and act is the recognized ideal in all bands of filed their applications after a careful physical examination. Many others learned of physical defects hitherto unnoticed, which proper care may serve to overcome. In every camp the candidates are subject to a second examination. Minor defects are noted; proper regiment and exercises are prescribed. A third examination at the close of the training period serves not merely as a record of physical improvement, but in many cases as a basis for suggestion as to future medical and surgical treatment of certain kinds at home. Standards of physical efficiency are established at every camp. Voluntary tests have proved the value of these standards, which are taken to every part of the country to serve community purposes. Each graduate of a CMTC becomes in a sense a living standard of physical fitness for his comrades and the gospel of health is carried to every village, town and city with obvious and significant advantages not merely to the present, but also to the next generation.

Moral character is another definite contribution of the Citizens' Camps. Daily discipline has its outcome in prompt response to orders, habits of obedience to recognized authority, secured without

"HOME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS"—A typical company street, where the candidates are quartered, living simply and strenuously in a democracy of good fellowship.

RELIGION IS THE FOUNDATION of Civilization. Services for men of every faith are held at appropriate times during the camp period, and candidates are urged to attend. Spiritual advice is never lacking. Chaplains have regular hours for individual conference.

American youth gathered in the democracy of good-fellowship at the training camps. With hardly a dissenting voice a quarter million of parents, fathers and mothers, have testified to the output in good character of the CMTC.

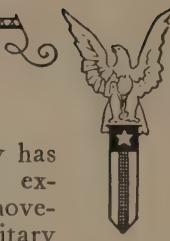

During the World War all denominations co-operated in establishing religious services in every training center. The same thought is carried throughout the Citizens' Camps of today. Everyone is encouraged to participate in public worship. Chaplains of the Regular Army and of the Reserve, aided by leading clergymen of various denominations, join in affording the opportunity.

Unanimous public approval comes to few movements in this country, but the Citizens' Camps have received it. Pulpit and Press, manufacturers and merchants, patriotic societies and women's clubs, mayors and governors, state and federal senators and representatives have registered their endorsement. Large employers of labor have with one accord increased the camps' attendance by allowing additional vacations with pay and organized labor in the American Federation has by formal resolution pledged its own support.

Civilian co-operation with of-Staff of the Reserve Divisions. With unstinted civilian co-operation the enrollment of men comes gradually to be rather the selection of the best from the host of applicants. The War Department has consistently observed the limits set by Congressional appropriations. The Adjutant General closes enrollment when full quotas are secured. Otherwise, applications would be each year two, three or four times greater than the places available. The Citizens' Military Training Camps have in five years grown as rapidly as appropriations allowed. Congress has granted yearly increases in funds. A new situation presents itself, however, through the comparative depletion of war stocks, in both the Ordnance and the Quartermaster departments, which have hitherto been available for the camps. Much more money will be needed, therefore, for next year quite aside from the additional sums requisite to meet the normal increase of enrollment, but it is not doubted that Congress will respond, in the future as in the past, to the evident desires of the people in connection with the Citizens' Camps.

Colleges and universities have given this year most striking endorsement to the CMTC. A considerable number of institutions have established camp scholarships, among them governmental policy has been conspicuously exemplified in this movement. The Military Training Camps Association initiated the proposal for voluntary camps and used its nation-wide organization for their success. The War Department recognized its efforts by the appointment from its membership of Civilian Aides to the Secretary of War for every corps area and state, and they were authorized in turn to appoint county chairmen and committees, as the official agency for the enrollment of candidates. Through visiting committees, by providing medals and prizes for excellence in military and athletic events, in the organization of candidates into local groups for future work the Association has made a distinguished record.

The responsibility of securing suitable candidates for the CMTC rests primarily on the Corps Area Commanders, splendidly supported by the Regular Army Officers detailed as Chiefs-

Columbia University, the University of Pennsylvania, Princeton University, The Catholic University of America and the University of Chicago. These scholarships carry free tuition and are open for award by the Camp Commander to the foremost candidates at various training centers, with the natural condition that they meet the ordinary requirements for college admission. Certain private schools of a military type, notably in the Fourth and Seventh Corps Areas, have this year shown their appreciation not only by enrolling some of their own students, but also by offering scholarships which represent a very substantial reduction of the usual fees. What has been so far done stands merely as a beginning of an important movement. There is every reason to expect that with proper encouragement a great number of leading schools and colleges in all sections of the country will offer scholarships available in the CMTC of 1926. No institution can get better material than is represented by the best young men in a Citizens' Military Training Camp. This plan will work a definite advantage to the CMTC since, heretofore, many capable young men have been excluded from this training by the necessity of earning, in the summer, part of their expenses for the coming school or college year. When there is a reasonable opportunity for such a young man to earn, through excellence at a summer camp, at least the tuition charges for the next year many most desirable candidates will present themselves for enrollment.

State Boards of Education have given a special recognition to the CMTC. In one commonwealth after another credit toward high school graduation, varying from one-fourth to one-half a unit, has been authorized. Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana and Oklahoma have taken this action and consideration is pending in many other states. Endorsement of this kind is significant principally because it is a concrete instance of the universal approval with which educators have considered the summer camps.

CMTA Clubs have been widely formed during the current year. Nothing proves the value of the summer camps better than the hearty support they receive from the young men who have been enrolled. On their own initiative they have organized local groups to perpetuate the friendships and to carry on the ideals of the training month. In large communities these groups hold their regular meetings throughout the year. In some places they continue the drill in the manual of arms and, here and there, they have held exhibitions or participated in the demonstrations of the Regular Army and the National Guard. Already well-developed State and Corps Area associations have been established among the men of the CMTA and it is fair to expect presently a nation-wide grouping of the clubs. Meanwhile they are even now the most efficient enrollment workers in co-operation with the county chairmen of the Military Training Camps Association.

Major General, U. S. Army

MAJOR GENERAL SAMUEL D. STURGIS

CAPTAIN JOHN M. HITE, Infantry, DOL

It will be interesting to the young men who have attended the Citizens' Military Training Camps within the Third Corps Area this year to know of some of the military attainments of their Corps Area Commander, Major General Samuel D. Sturgis.

General Sturgis was born at Saint Louis, Missouri, August 1, 1861, and was reared and educated there. In 1880 he entered the United States Military Academy at West Point, where he was graduated in 1884.

In his fourth year at the Military Academy Cadet Sturgis was appointed Adjutant of the Cadet Corps. This appointment is given out every year to the Cadet first classman who is considered by the authorities to be, professionally, the best cadet in the Corps. The characteristics which won him the appointment as Cadet Adjutant have been retained by the man throughout his long service in the Army.

Upon graduation and after being commissioned a Second Lieutenant of Field Artillery in 1884, General Sturgis served in all of the commissioned grades and on October 7, 1921, he was appointed a Major General of the Line, which rank he now holds with distinction.

In 1915, as Colonel, he was especially designated to organize and command the 7th Field Artillery Regiment. Overcoming great difficulties in securing equipment for the new regiment and in housing the men as they reported to Camp Wilson, Texas, Colonel Sturgis in a very short time placed the regiment in readiness for field service. This fine example of brilliancy, perseverance and good judgment on the part of Colonel Sturgis is paralleled by only a few officers of our Army throughout its history.

During the World War General Sturgis trained, organized and commanded the 87th Division which he took overseas; he later commanded the 80th Division. Both Area Commander has served his country ever faithfully and honorably in the Regular Army. His decisiveness, together with his conservative, farseeing judgment and his perfect devotion to duty may well be taken by all young men as a fine example and pattern for success in life.

Of course, we cannot have successful training camps unless we get a sufficient number of high-class young men to fill them. The CMTC students themselves really make the camps, because the better the material the easier it is to handle, the more intelligent is the interest taken in the courses of instruction, the higher the esprit-de-corp and discipline and, consequently, the more successful the camps.

Therefore, those responsible for CMTC procurement in the Third Corps Area have concerned themselves fully as much about quality as about quantity in the selection of candidates for these camps. As a result, Divisions made fine records under his command.

General Sturgis assumed command of the Panama Canal Department in October, 1921, and was and is still held in the very highest esteem by the American and foreign civilians of that possession. Under General Sturgis' command of the Panama Canal Department, a comprehensive war plan was made for the defense of the Canal. The new road from Pedro Miguel to Camp Gaillard was built during General Sturgis' regime and many improvements were made in the army properties under his supervision.

Upon completion of his tour of duty in Panama, General Sturgis was placed in command of the Third Corps Area. Under his command the Corps Area continued to develop sports and athletics of all kinds, as he lays great stress on this phase of army life. General Sturgis most heartily endorses the CMTC idea, the paramount object of which is the basic military and civic training and the physical development of the youth of our nation.

From Cadet to Major General our Corps

the 1925 Camps are composed of representatives of the best young manhood of the nation drawn from all walks of life, all serving together in these typically American institutions where they are comrades and friends on a common level of duty, fellowship and equality. The CMTC thus becomes a great popular training school for young men where the educational standards are better physical manhood, higher principles of patriotism and more serious conceptions of the duties of American citizenship.

The basic plan of CMTC procurement in the Third Corps Area has been that of decentralization of responsibilities throughout the several states and the District of Columbia. The Civilian Recruiting Agencies were headed by a Corps Area Aide to the Secretary of War from the Military Training Camps Association, which position was held this year by Mr. Gresham H. Poe of Baltimore. The States had their own Civilian Aides; for Pennsylvania, Mr. Theodore Rosen of Philadelphia; for Virginia, Dr. Douglas S. Freeman of Richmond; for Maryland, Mr. Valentine S. Doebler of Baltimore and for the District of Columbia, Colonel LeRoy W. Herron of Washington. The several State Aides appointed their own District and County Chairmen.

CMTC activities pertaining to the Army agencies were decentralized and subdivided in a similar manner, Corps Area Headquarters delegating the actual field work to the several Chiefs of Staff of Organized Reserve Divisions, who in turn appointed their own Associate County Chairmen from Regular Army officers on duty under them to co-operate with the respective MTCA Chairmen in the same counties.

The total combined surplus of applications received in the Third Corps Area was 118.36 per cent, showing the 1925 CMTC campaign to have been the most successful in the whole history of the training camps. The credit for these excellent results and the wonderful co-operation that made them possible is mainly due to our active and resourceful representatives in the field.

FAREWELL FROM THE COMMANDING GENERAL

YOUNG GENTLEMEN OF THE CMTC:

Upon the completion of your month's training at Camp Meade, I wish to express my appreciation of your uniformly good conduct; your attention to drills and instructions; your cheerful performance of your less pleasant but necessary duties, such as kitchen police; and your general team-work and high morale that you have maintained during the camp. You have worked hard and you have played hard; and you are taking back to your communities the valuable lessons of team work, co-operation, and mutual service which are the foundation stones of our civilization.

It has been a great pleasure to command you red-blooded youngsters, and I feel that the future of our great country is safe in your hands.

HISTORY OF HEADQUARTERS HOWITZER COMPANY

WILMER KRUSEN GALLAGER

*Ho! Ho! Look at that hat!
Where did you get that shirt?*

Thus, with such comments began the 1925 CMTC Headquarters Howitzer Company of the famous 12th Infantry, composed of fine, cheerful, helpful fellows and officers who during drill are efficient men, and after retreat good companions. It is no wonder that Headquarters Company is one of the best in the camp. It was evident that the fellows came here prepared for real work and real play at the right time.

From Pittsburgh, Reading, Philadelphia and all parts of Western and Southeastern Pennsylvania the men of the Howitzer Company came on the first of July. The most pleasant sight presented to the fellows, especially the veterans of previous camps, was the tents in which we would make our home for a full month. To the veterans, everything seemed changed. However, it took them but a short time to adjust themselves to the changed conditions. Probably one of the greatest changes, outside of the tents, was the mess hall. Several companies ate in one large mess hall. This was an added incentive for competition between the companies and it may be said that at all times the Howitzer Company during meal time won out.

On our first day in camp the company was organized. J. Frederic Johnson was appointed as first sergeant and Russell S. Merkle as student commander. Three platoons were formed with Robert Martin, Theodore Kiss and Wilson Cochran as platoon sergeants of the first, second and third platoons respectively. Our company was composed of two Blues, four Whites, twenty-four Reds, and eighty-five Basics. We were addressed by our camp commander, Brigadier General La Roy Upton, on the second of July. He welcomed us to Camp Meade and asked that we co-operate with him and his staff in making this the best camp of the CMTC.

In the course of the next few days athletic teams were formed and games were played. Both the baseball and volleyball teams started off with flying colors. In the track meet with ROTC Wendell Stewart won third in the 120 high hurdles and Albert Kohlash ran in the two mile event. During the second and third week the Howitzer Company had one hundred per cent every day for the manner in which they kept their quarters and grounds policed.

Our men did well in the qualifying test. Some of them took part in the demonstration at seven o'clock in the morning, when the gun crew composed of seven men from our CMTC Company, set out for Admiral Hill—Sergeant Kiss and Corp. Wyatt on the 37mm., Sgt. Cochran, Sgt. Sidle, Corp. Schue, Corp. Carr and 1st Sgt. Johnson. The opinion of those who viewed the demonstration was that the work done by the men of our company equalled the best work done by the "Regulars".

Ten out of eleven shots fired by the Stokes Mortar hit within the bull ring and the eleventh shot was on the left outside edge. The shots fired by the 37 mm. were just as accurate. Our company had one hundred per cent for subscriptions to the Camp Annual.

The two trips which the CMTC students made, one to Washington and the other to Annapolis, were participated in by quite a few from our company. One of the sergeants of the company, Sidle, brought his car, (beg your pardon) meaning his Ford, to camp with him. Now Sidle, Johnson and Merkle were in the habit of going to church at Odenton every Sunday evening. One of these Sunday evening attendances almost caused heart failure to the company. It was about 8:45 p. m., when a Regular came around and said that Sidle's limousine was hit by an express train and that the three men had been killed. Well, the whole company put on long faces and prepared to wait for some official word, when, behold! in came the dead men, or the men who were supposed to be dead. Our company was so mad when they saw how they had been deceived, that they almost mobbed those three men, but really, everyone was glad that the report was false.

On July 28th we took a prominent part in the maneuvers and left for home. I am sure that the men of the Howitzer Company will never forget the month they spent in Camp Meade.

CAPTAIN JOHN HOPKINS

CLYDE W. WYATT.

Born November 9, 1886, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, attended Berea College 1902-05; entered the U. S. Army in 1905 and served continually since that time at various posts throughout the United States, China and the Philippines; commissioned as captain of infantry, May 11, 1917; served during the World War in France and the Army of Occupation in Germany with the 357th Infantry of the 90th Division; promoted to major, April 29, 1919; held that grade until returning to the United States from Germany the latter part of the same year.

Assistant professor of military science and tactics at the University of Pennsylvania 1919 to 1922; graduated from the Infantry School 1923; joined the 12th Infantry June 4, 1923; commanded Headquarters Company of the regiment since that date.

THE HOWITZER PLATOON

CAPTAIN JOHN HOPKINS

In the early part of the World War it became apparent that the rifle grenade, though an excellent weapon, had too little range where the front lines were considerable distance apart, and too small a projectile to be effective against machine gun emplacements. This condition was remedied by the invention by Major Stokes, British Army, of the 3-inch Stokes mortar. This mortar can be fired from a trench. It has an effective range of 1800 yards and an effective radius of burst of 30 yards. Since it is a high angle of fire weapon it is most effective against trenches, machine gun emplacements, personnel and animals. Similarly the 37 mm. gun is a child of necessity. The urgent need for a piece of artillery small enough to have sufficient mobility to advance with and closely support infantry troops and yet large enough to be effective against machine gun emplacements and tanks was met by the invention of a French Officer of the 37 mm. gun.

The Howitzer Platoon of Headquarters Company, 12th Infantry, is armed with these weapons. This little group of 19 men has become most efficient in handling and using their guns. This year marks the third consecutive marksmanship season in which this organization has qualified 100 per cent, an achievement probably equalled by no other Howitzer Platoon or Company in the Army. In case of national emergency this platoon will provide the nucleus for two war strength howitzer companies.

HEADQUARTERS COMPANY

A TRIP TO MOUNT VERNON

HAROLD A. MONYER

The day was but barely begun Saturday, the eleventh of July, when a subdued bustle could be discerned in camp. Everyone was in a high fever of excitement and in fine spirits. Why? We were going on a trip which meant quite a lot to us; first, to Washington for a tour through the city, and secondly, a trip down the Potomac to Mount Vernon, the immortal home and the resting place of the revered remains of the father of our country—George Washington.

At seven o'clock the men who were going were formed into squads in their respective company streets and then marched down to the depot. There we boarded the electric train, seven hundred and twenty-five strong, all set for the ride to the Capitol.

Arriving at Washington we were all put safely aboard motor cars and busses and then proceeded down Maryland Avenue to the Capitol building, where the guides gave the men a general idea of the functions of the various wings of the building. The route then led down Pennsylvania Avenue, past the White House, Senate Offices, The United World Workers Building, The Red Cross Building, the Treasury, the War Department, the Mint and the Pan-American building.

The busses then proceeded to the seventh street wharves where we boarded the boat, "Charles Macalester". At ten o'clock we cast off and started the third lap of our journey down the Potomac.

Many points of interest could be seen as we passed down the river. Looking backward the giant towers of Arlington predominated on the left, with the Capitol in the background and the Naval Air Squadron on the right.

The time quickly elapsed owing to the fact that we had such a fine orchestra, so that "Lookout Point" and historic Fort Washington faded from view almost before we were aware of it.

We landed at the foot of Mount Vernon and marched up the sloping walk past the unpretentious tomb of Washington into the house itself.

The many rooms and hallways were a constant wonder to us all, with the beautiful paintings and antiques of wondrous design. In the main hall contained in a glass case was the sword Washington wore at the surrender of the British Army. In small cases surrounding the walls were bric-a-brac of every kind, some of them being Washington's personal belongings.

After walking through the grounds we again cast off, bound homeward.

JOKES

PAUL O. EMERICK

"Landis, can you play, 'down on the farm'?"

Landis—"Yes."

"Then go down on the farm and play that cornet."

Corporal Yeager to a Cavalryman leading a horse—"Hey, fellow raise your hand. I want to see which is the horse."

A Norristown private thought a skirmish line was a guy rope.

Corporal—"Jake, your shirt is out."

Private—"Out where the vest begins."

SICK LIST

"Hey, Soister, what's wrong?"

Soister—"I haven't decided yet."

Sidle drove to the range in his leaping Lena. A private said, "I didn't know the tanks were out today."

CMTC—"Why do they put U. S. on the army mule?"

Regular—"That means Un Safe."

FRANKLIN PARSONS

A hot sun blazed down upon a city of brown tents and long, low unpainted buildings. Cutting these tents and buildings into blocks were straight roads running through the camp. Sand was everywhere, acting as a great reflector for the sun. Here and there the glare of the sun was broken by plots of dead, brown, grass and clumps of southern pines, white from the dust of the sand.

Into this military city of Camp Meade were jumbled the boys of Company "A". The majority were real rookies and showed their bewilderment in every move and action. However, they brought something beside Pittsburgh "coal dust". Company "A" had acquired a motto "of nothing but the best". This helps to account for its good work, and fine spirit throughout the camp.

Company "A" soon won recognition in every camp activity. Under the direction of Captain Brooks, Captain Clark, Lieutenant Norman, platoon sergeants and a few pains-taking regulars, it was whipped into a military organization. The company rated high in military drills and the inspection ratings were high, for a great amount of rivalry existed between tents. Various men in the company made excellent ratings in military competitions. Others made good on athletic teams which represented the company and the camp.

This spirit drove them to give the utmost,. The motto of "nothing but the best", made Company "A" a success in every line of endeavor. It is these thoughts combined with the things learned at Camp Meade which will send them back home better men and better citizens.

Company "A" was 100% subscribed for the camp annual.

OUR RATINGS

MARCUS J. GANNON

Company "A" has been endeavoring to have the best CMTC Company in camp. It has a good system to obtain this. The company commander, Captain H. J. Brooks, places on the bulletin every week the name of the best Basic, Red, White and Blue in the company. Company "A" is divided into three platoons. Each platoon is commanded by an officer appointed by the company commander. This platoon leader watches the actions of each young man in his platoon; then, according to these observations he reports to Captain Brooks the name of the student who he thinks is performing all his duties best. Captain Brooks may also be seen at almost every formation. Here he observes very closely the actions of every young man in the company. After careful consideration and consultation the man who performs all his duties best is rated as the best. In this manner every man in the company is trying to do his best and he thereby keeps up the standard of the entire company.

CAPTAIN H. J. BROOKS

ABRAHAM MORETSKY

When we hear the name of Teddy Roosevelt, at once a recognition comes to our minds of a great man. The same is to be said of our honorable company commander, Captain H. J. Brooks, by our company and those who know him. Captain Brooks began his military career in 1917 in the Second Officers' Training Camp at Fort Oglethorpe. "Over there" he was assigned to the 54th Infantry, Sixth Division, known as the "Sight-Seeing Six". Since the War, Captain Brooks has served as instructor at Camp Grant and with the Wisconsin National Guard; he was in the Infantry School at Fort Benning before coming to Camp Meade. Captain Brooks is known to his Company "A" boys as one of the finest gentlemen and officers and under him they made a record as the best CMTC company in camp. Our hope for Captain Brooks is that when we return next year we shall see him major of the First Battalion!

H. J. BROOKS
Captain, 12th Infantry

TO THE CMTC
WILLIAM LAIR

Rank and file of marching brown,
Youths' diadem in a nation's crown!
America, we hear your call;
"Liberty and Justice for one and all."
We came to learn the way to fight
For our freedom and our right.
The glory of this great free land,
Sheltered in the soldier's hand,
Shall ne'er be dimmed by guns unmanned
Or lack of sword and loyal band.
We came to stay, to stand the fight
For your righteous power and might.
By the faith of our fathers, the creed of our land,
We take our place, we make our stand.

TRUE STUFF

ANDREW R. SCHMIDT

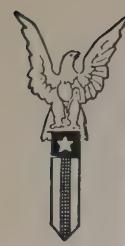

Company "A" stands first in place
After a hard and strenuous race.
It takes both brain and brawn,
For boys like us to become non-coms!

In fight or in fun
We are the best under the sun,
No one can argue, because there's no use,
For if he had the nerve
K. P. he would serve.

TOAST TO CAMP MEADE
Many's the camp you've heard of,
And many's the camp you'll see;
But of all the camps you'll know of,
"Twill always be Camp Meade for me.

COMPANY "A"

COMPANY "A" BOYS—THE BEST IN CAMP

Company "A" boys all hail from that good old Keystone State.

Company "A" boys are the best sportsmen in camp.

Company "A" boys took many first places in sports.

Company "A" boys have the best advisors in Captain Shamulski, Captain Bergin, Sergeant Bubb, Sergeant Wynn, Sergeant Cox, Sergeant Pallkof, Corporal Black, Corporal Langstein, Corporal Griffin and Corporal Law.

Company "A" boys have the most orderly barracks.

Company "A" has the best comedians in camp, in the great Caesar, Brutus, Mark Anthony, Daniel Boone and Major Kenworthy.

Company "A" has the best cheer leaders in camp.

Company "A" took the lead in their Battalion's review before General Kiske.

Company "A" was picked by the "Pathé News" to act and drill before the camera.

Company "A" boys have the best marksmen in their battalion.

Company "A" boys have the best looking boys in camp.

Company "A" boys are a clever bunch of young Americans.

Company "A" boys are the only boys that have an orchestra in camp. They usually entertained in the "B" Hut.

Company "A" boys are the most religious students in camp. A large percentage of them attended church each Sunday.

Company "A" boys are the most industrious citizens in camp.

Company "A" boasts of its 3 Blue course men, 5 White course men and 9 Red course men. It also boasts of a few expert riflemen.

Company "A" boasts of its cooks as being the best and kindest in camp.

Company "A" also has many boys representing the editorial staff of the "Defender".

Company "A" is the best Company, for it is the first on the list in Camp.

Abie thinks the song, "After the Ball", was written by a football coach.

Voice over the telephone—"This is the girl you hugged at the dance last night."
Other end—"At what time?"

"Two pints make a quart, two quarts make one wild."

COMPANY "A" ORCHESTRA

DEMONSTRATION DAY

FRED R. KLEIBACKER

On July 20th the regular army demonstrated the various branches of the service to the CMTC's, who sat on a neighboring hill viewing the remarkable spectacle. During the performance explanations of the different departments were offered by Colonel Thorne. The unusual attraction of the day was opened by the approach of the cavalry who conducted their maneuvers in a fine style. After withdrawing from the field, the troop dashed suddenly from the woods and took its stand behind an embankment all the while pouring fire upon the enemy. Machine guns were carried up and volleys of shots occupied the enemy's attention while the remaining squadrons flanked the enemy and surrounded them. This maneuver was received with great applause. The artillery was then rushed up to the front and commenced shooting shells in a lively fashion. An airplane kept the artillery in touch with the enemy's stronghold. When the guns had ceased firing the CMTC was marched to the other side of the hill where they witnessed the actions of the rapid fire guns. Next the mortars were shot. They throw the shell up in the air in order that it might drop upon the place designated.

The climax of the morning occurred when two 40 ton tanks and five baby tanks attacked machine gun nests. The purpose of this demonstration is to give the CMTC's an insight into the various departments of the army and to help them decide what course they might wish to take up in the following years. It also shows how each branch of the army co-operates with others in the annihilation of the enemy. It afforded us an exciting and profitable morning.

MAKERS OF COMPANY "A"

ABRAHAM MORETSKY

K. O. Ferry of McKeesport, professional boxer, brought to Company "A" a name in the fistic column of the entire camp. He challenged and defeated all opponents. Company "A" boys are proud of Ferry and hope to follow him up in his future bouts, for he has the making of a champ.

Milton Mermulstein, a youth who came to camp with the idea of making good, has seen the fruits of his efforts, for he was chosen as Company "A's" best Basic week after week. He also hails from McKeesport, but is not a boxer.

Franklin Parsons, a Pitt student who brought honors to Company "A" through hurdling, made Company "A's" progress in publicity possible.

Sergeant Lang, the McKeesport, Pa., husky also brought honors to Company "A" by his powerful arm work in putting the shot. The Sergeant has also been selected as the best White of the battalion for several weeks in succession.

Rex Call, the violinist, famous for his jazz music, formed an orchestra in the hostess house to show the boys a good time in the music line. Of course, he gained fame by his good selections. With his fame came honors to Company "A".

Company "A" boys appreciate the efforts of Captain Brooks, a man who has put his heart into his work and co-operated with the boys. Captain Brooks taught the boys military discipline, which was greatly appreciated.

Nicholas Unkovich of Bellevue, Pa., has shown Company "A" some real military tactics, although he is a Blue. Sergeant Unkovich was chosen as best Blue in the company. His military ability ranks with that of the regimental officers. Nicholas is a student at the University of Pittsburgh.

Young Sterling, another Company "A" youth, who for the first time donned fight gloves in the ring against tough opposition and was victorious. He was instructed by K. O. Ferry of Company "A".

Bernard Cramer of Lakeland, Florida, a student in the dental school at the University of Pittsburgh, was a very important character to the second platoon of Company "A". Sergeant Cramer showed his ability by his instruction to his students during the first two weeks of hard drill. He is an excellent teacher. Cramer knows his (Onions).

Sidney P. Hyman, a White classman, spent most of his time at tennis. He was an important factor representing Company "A" in the tennis tournament. Sergeant Hyman is also an excellent leader. Sidney's side line is golf. I wonder if he can "Tea".

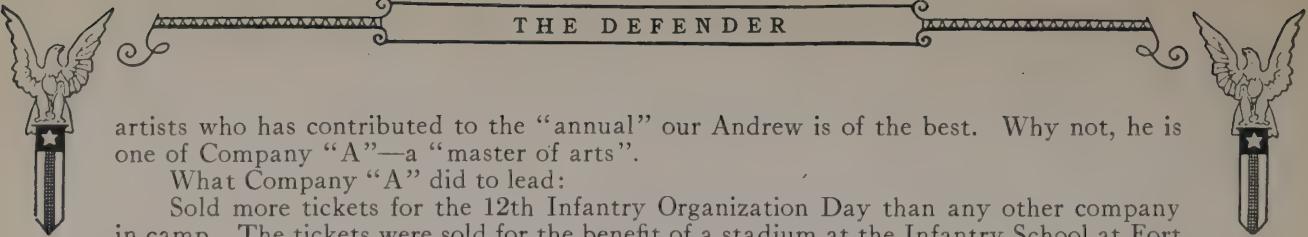

Corporal Frank Seebick Kenworthy of Company "A" has been appointed secretary of "The Camp Annual" Staff. This is, indeed, a great compliment. His followers also appreciated the good judgment of Chaplain Stick, Editor-in-Chief of "The Defender". Who-ray for Kenworthy!

Joseph Zolkowsky, a White student, who has made his high grade through two months of service, is boasted as one of Company "A's" best students. His ability as a guide has often helped the boys in his platoon to be accurate in their movements. Joe is a man to be remembered, for his attendance and accuracy in the many company activities brought him and his company good fortune.

The volleyball team of Company "A" worked wonders and was on the way to a championship. Although a few of the boys had experience in the game, others did not, but picked up the game very rapidly. The mainstays of the team were "Brownie" and "Glick". The team was coached by Lieutenant Norman, a well-known champ in volleyball from Fort Howard.

Robert Sterling, Wild Bill Smith and Charles Abraham. All cards put out at the Liberty Theatre were represented with Company "A" boys. Out of every six bouts three or four bouts were represented with Company "A" boys. Company "A" heartily thanks K. O. Ferry for his masterful instruction which helped the boys in every possible way.

At last we found the precious one. This is Andrew R. S. Schmidt. This young lad has proved to be the finest artist of our staff. He is excellent not only in commercial arts, but also in cartooning and other such artistic work. Statistics show that for the class of artists who has contributed to the "annual" our Andrew is of the best. Why not, he is one of Company "A"—a "master of arts".

What Company "A" did to lead:

Sold more tickets for the 12th Infantry Organization Day than any other company in camp. The tickets were sold for the benefit of a stadium at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia. Company "A" not only benefitted by helping the Infantry School, but also by the exciting program of the day. It was the only company in camp to hold the best CMTC flag twice. Company "A" boys also led in the number of men on the trip to Mount Vernon and Annapolis.

We are proud to mention that two of our Basics were promoted to "Standard Bearers"—Milton Mermulstein, Company "A" Flagbearer and Rex Call, Best CMTC Company in Camp Flagbearer. These men have been complimented by the company commander, Captain Brooks, for their excellent work for this last month.

Who said Company "A" is not the best in camp? Why, we are privileged to say that our company has the most men who qualified for "marksmanship" and we also can say that our men received "sharpshooters" medals. Does this bring honor to Company "A"? It certainly does.

The third platoon of Company "A" put out a challenge to every company in camp to be held on the afternoon of July 24th, 1925. Company "A" was present, but where were the challenged platoons? The challenge was not answered, therefore, there was no competition. Company "A's" third platoon, therefore, proved to be the best in camp. This does not prove that the other platoons of "A" Company, are not of equal rating.

Lieut. Kelly—"Who was it I heard swearing in this tent?"

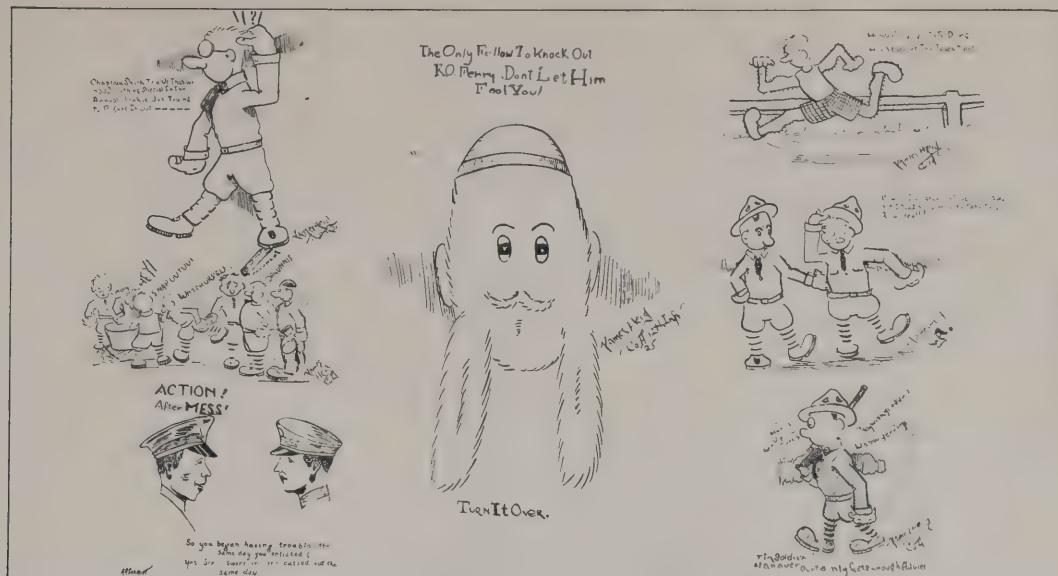

Red Student—"No one sir, I was just telling these Basic students what not to say."

It is reported that a Basic student recently entered his tent, took off his clothing, put it in bed and climbed into his barrack bag.

Company Commander—"How come you limp so much?"

Basic Student—"Oh! the mice have been pretty bad in our tent lately and my dumb tentmate set a trap for them in one of my shoes."

ABE MORETSKY

CAPTAIN BROOKS

Captain Brooks.
A man so firm,
Stuck with the boys
To the end of the term.

SERGEANT POLLIKOCK

Sergeant Pollikock,
A Pollock, I believe,
Oh, he's a grand old soul
One whom we all achieve.

SERGEANT GRIFFITH

Sergeant Griffith
The man whom we're for.
When fifty men were absent
He called "all present and accounted for".

FITZGERALD

Fitzgerald, the orderly,
Who types all day long
To get out names of all K. P.'s
For the duty he never prolongs.

CORPORAL O'DONNELL

Corporal O'Donnell
A grand soldier acts
For in the file close
He uses these tacts.

KIER HUMPHREYS

Our funny arts,
So humorous and true,
Are drawn by Humphreys,
Who saw them through.

K. O. FERRY

Ferry—a champ
He sure is to be,
For with the gloves
He stings like a bee.

JOE ZOLKOSKI

Joe is a soldier
A good one too;
When he's called for duty
He is there to do.

ABIE MORETSKY

They call him "Abie the Agent",
Because he tried in vain
To get subscriptions for the Annual
With much strife and pain.

MAJOR KENWORTHY

They call him the "Major"
And all such names so worthy.
I guess you all know who this is—
The man named Frank Kenworthy.

UNKOVICH

A younger Unkovich appeared
To make this the best month of the year.
A standard like his brother's to make
Would make him speed some rate.

HISTORY OF COMPANY "B"

DONALD J. SHERBONDE

The boys who were to form Company "B" began pouring into Camp with hundreds of others early on the morning of July first. They came from all parts of Pennsylvania and by almost all the means of transportation ever known to man. Many of them, especially the sweet young one who had never left mamma before, came in berths on the steam trains. They had a beastly hard night and woke up in the morning with a sore back and an aching head. The poor little dears! Some of the hardier boys traveled to the camp in those dilapidated affairs that are sold by parts in the five-and-ten cent stores. But, the real hard-boiled army men arrived by way of the shoe-leather express. Their only trouble was in being chased by traffic cops.

Thus the new members of the Company "B" arrived. They were first examined by physicians with periscopes, feeliscopes and eyeiscopes to find if the hoops of their chests were flexible enough and to find any young pets they might have hidden on their bodies. They were informed that their company commander was named Captain Lyons and soon learned that he was not only lion-hearted but also a social lion and a real man.

At first it was hard for the boys to get used to army life. For the first few nights they stayed up until about twelve o'clock and then had to be dragged out in the morning. When some of the poor fellows were awakened in the early dawn they thought that they were being called out to night fire drill. The first time some of them went to mess they were very polite young gentlemen, but they almost starved. The method of procedure was soon changed and they got plenty to eat during the remainder of the month. After the first day of drill some were woke up in the middle of the night by a poor boob yelling "Squads right, squads left, hold your pivot, you dumbbell". He was soon strangled into silence.

From the very beginning Company "B" started out to become one of the best bunches of fellows in camp, although they never received the "best CMTC company" flag, for one entire night Company "C's" flag was very mysteriously stationed in front of "B's" orderly tent. Company "C" put their flag in the safe the next night. Company "B" might be called "the singing company" for no matter how hard the work or how hot the sun, they were light-hearted, fighting boys because they liked their officers, especially Sergeants Chiles, Smith and Jones.

In athletics Company "B" was the very best in camp, thereby winning the athletic cup presented to the best CMTC company. Their baseball team went through an undefeated season of seven games. Their indoor baseball team won seven games and lost three, but still headed the league. Company "B" was runner-up in the tennis tournament and they were also high in the volleyball league.

The following show that the boys of Company "B" were not only straight men, but also straight shots:

Basic Course	Red Course	White Course	Blue Course
Marksmen 139	Marksmen 2	Sharpshooters 1	Marksmen 3
Sharpshooters 5.

The Best Basic candidate in Company "B" was Frank W. Chambers, Beaver Falls, Pa.

The best Red Course candidate in the rifle companies ("A", "B" and "C") of the First Battalion was Lawrence J. Kennedy of Allegheny, Pa. and a member of Company "B".

The Best White Course candidate in Headquarters Company and the First Battalion was Jack W. Mathias of Charleroi, Pa. and a member of Company "B".

A frivolous young foreigner, with no love for the Stars and Stripes, once exclaimed at a celebration where the American flag was very much in evidence—"Oh, what a silly looking thing the American flag is! It suggests nothing but striped candy."

"Yes," replied the CMTC lad, "the kind of candy that has made everybody sick who tried to lick it."

"I met a man last week and could have sworn he was you."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. He was your very image, except his hair was a trifle gray. I don't suppose you have a twin brother a few years older than you are?"

COMPANY "B" — BASEBALL CHAMPIONS

The Company "B" team, which won the CMTC baseball league championship, is made up of the following players:

FRED MENTZ, New Brighton, Pa.	3rd base, Captain
JOHN ORR, Brownsville, Pa.	2nd base
HAROLD ALLISON, Carmichaels, Pa.	left field
JOE CAMPBELL, Gochester, Pa.	short stop
FRED RYLAND, Bentleyville, Pa.	1st base

OUR FIRST HOLIDAY

WILLIAM F. PILICH

I thought I heard the bugle blow, I rolled over in my bunk. Ah! if I could have just one more hour's sleep! No one stirred in our tent—all was silent. My heavy eye lids fell again; I was in slumber once more. Someone passed our tent and yelled: "All up in there?" and then chuckled to himself. I sat up and looked around. Sure enough all five around me were sleeping. I looked at my watch—quarter to six! Well to make a long story short, I realized I had to waken the others up (we all agreed to that several days before). The first one I tackled had rather a hard personality; he used it this time. He dragged out, "what do ya want?" To say it myself I am sort of good natured, so I returned "Get up! It's quarter to six?" "Aw go chase yer self", he said, "this is the Fourth of July and we may sleep till quarter to seven."

A COUPLE O' GRINS

ERNEST A. REEVES

Student—"Sergeant Chiles, what is a joke?"

Chiles—"A joke is something to laugh at."

Student—"Well, then you must be a joke."

Little Bob of Company "C" just tipped the scales at two hundred pounds.

"What, you're hard of hearing and you want a position in our telephone exchange?"

"Yes sir, at least, I would have an excuse for not answering."

He—"Darling, do you think you could live on twenty-five dollars a week?"

She—"Yes, but no longer."

Girl—"My brother works on a farm."

R. Webb—"I wish I could but I have hay fever."

CMTC Student—"Writing a letter to your dad?"

Tent mate—"No, a requisition."

No, Jim, a post graduate is not a fellow who matriculated at a correspondence school.

"He seems awfully provincial, doesn't he? So small-town in his ideas, so narrow in his outlook on life."

Robert Saxer—"What can you expect he's lived all his life in New York?"

Captain Lyon—"Explain the word rebuttal."

Thomas—"A second visit from a goat."

SOME OF OUR FAVORITE SONGS

"Like a baby's father needs it's mother, that's how I need you."

"She was only an electrician's daughter, but she gave him a heck of a shock."

"When the Irish woman washes she's always three sheets in the wind."

Bert Daily—"There is enough ice in Greenland to cool enough high-balls for everyone in the United States, if we had the high-balls."

Officer—"Can you make a sentence with the word tinsel?"

Mason (Looking into the sky paying no attention)—"A storm is coming and if we don't hurry our tensil fall down."

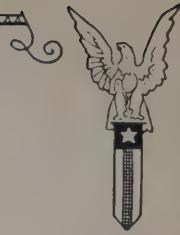

"Before any damage could be done, the fire was put out by the Camp Meade Fire Department."

"Gowan, you mean, the fire was put out before any damage could be done by the Camp Meade Fire Department."

Was out for a walk and throwing away a cigarette carelessly it fell in a corn crib which caught fire. The corn began to pop and he mistook it for snow and froze to death.

"Say, do I take the train from Odenton to Pittsburg?"

"No, the engine does that."

COMPANY "C"

COMPANY "C" HISTORY

LEONARD R. EINSTEIN

As we trooped into Camp Meade on July 1st, 1925, some of us in pairs, some alone, a person could not have imagined that we rookies from different localities, would in a month's time, become members of Company "C"—the best CMTC Company. However, this was the result of the careful and exact training which we received from our competent officers.

Twice we have been the best company in the regiment and have earned the special commendation of Major Peale, and again we won the outdoor baseball championship. Company "C" also has the best Basic in John G. Ball, the best Red in Wm. Hepler, the best White in Dewitt R. Evans, and the best Blue in William E. Baily. Not content with being best in drill and athletics we have seven men on "THE DEFENDER" staff, and even have a Jove, Brutus, Caesar and a few dumbbells. For instance; at the overnight camp the night before maneuvers, a member of Company "C" piped out. "After you finish that trench, will you have to dig another hole to put in the dirt?"

So you see, with such a variety of people, Company "C" cannot help but be an extraordinary company, and when the Company "C" boys go home, they will be proud to say that they were in Company "C".

OUR CMTC

J. R. DIEHL

Well, we're here because we're here, boys,
And every heart feels gay,
For there's nothing like these camp joys
To drive dull care away.

There's nothing better in the world
For one who's young and gay,
Then to watch the "Stars and Stripes" unfurl
At the dawning of the day.

Those boys will be the backbone
Of America's soldier band
And I ask my friends of the CMTC
Could anything be more grand?

And when that day comes to a close
The boys in khaki stand
To pay a solemn tribute
To the banner of our land.

My thoughts fly to that soldier host
Now drilling in the field
For when our nation needs men most
Those boys will be her shield.

MESS !!

J. R. DIEHL

There's a place in Meade
They call the mess,
Where the soldiers feed
And the K. P. rest,
Where the table waiters
Peddle ice tea
To fill the craters
Of you and me.

The rest no doubt
You all can guess
But you gott'a watch out
When we CMTC's mess.

It's a bully place
For a guy to go
To feed his face
And tackle his dough.
There's a powerful noise
When we all come in
For we're hungry boys
And afraid we'll get thin.

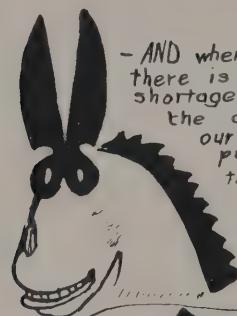

CO. "C"

LEONARD R. EINSTEIN

At quarter to six in the morning when all is quiet and still,
 A clarion call is sounded which echoes from hill to hill.
 "It's time to get up—it's time to get up," the bugle seems to say,
 So with many a little grunt or snort we rise to the work of the day.

Up to the mess hall we then go, a crowd of cannibals all,
 To eat our fill of ham and eggs and so grow strong and tall.
 An hour or so and then to drill we march four in a row,
 To listen when captains explain to us the whys, the whens, and the hows.

 much at fault.

But all work earnestly and long until we hear the mess hall gong falling upon our ears.
 Afternoon means swim and play the games that we like best
 Till we—hungry again attack and down the mess.

After retreat is over we do what each likes best
 'Till nine o'clock does come around and we gain our needed rest.
 Thus passes the day of a CMTC
 Who goes to camp for betterment of character, brain and health.

HOW WE REACHED MEADE

CHARLES KULICK

Twenty boys started out from New Kensington on the eve of June 29th in a large and commodious bus for Camp Meade. About 30 miles from our starting point the idling gear went out of commission and we were stranded there pending repairs till next day at eleven o'clock. That night will be long remembered, I'm sure. There were a few trucks laden with liquor that tried to get by some State troopers who lay in waiting for them, but we had the satisfaction of seeing them captured as well as a large Cadillac car which accompanied the convoy. As we continued our trip to Baltimore every truck which passed was termed a booze truck regardless of whether it was a coal truck or a farm produce truck. We had another breakdown at Gettysburg and most of us slept in the bus that night; the rest went to a hotel. In the morning we toured the city and looked over the battle-field. On the road to Baltimore the idling gear again went blooie and the drivers arranged for transportation on the electric line to camp, where we arrived on the afternoon of July 1st. There we were promptly examined, stripped, our civies taken from us and uniforms substituted.

NOTE S

General Upton played a short but brilliant game for Company "C" on July 11th and seemed to enjoy himself hugely.

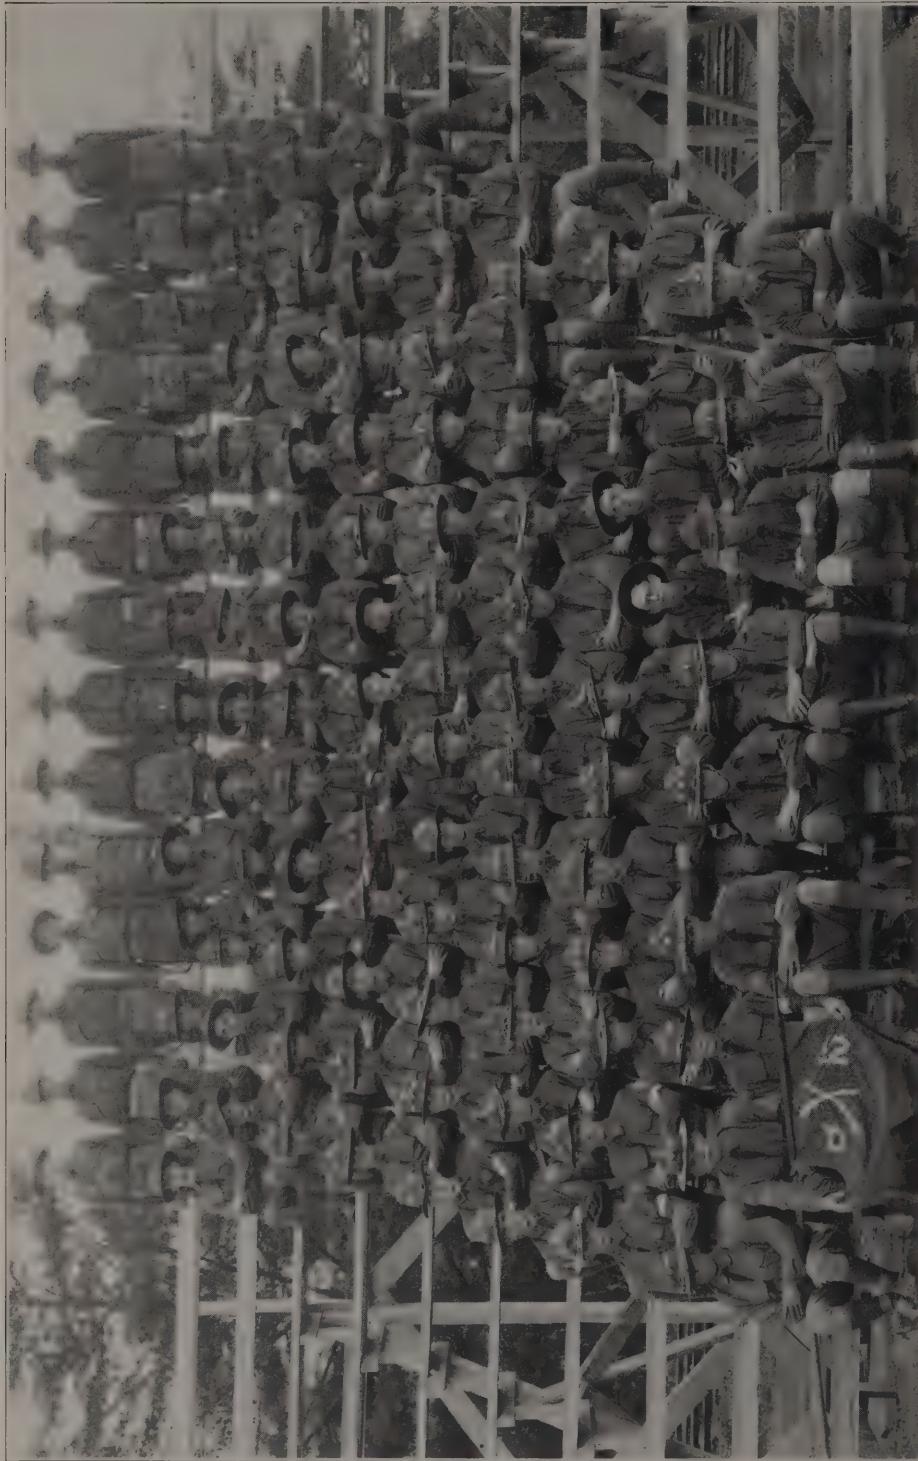

July 15th—Chas. Kulick and H. Miller, representing the CMTC, defeated Johns and Allen of the Regular Army; also of Company "C", in an unofficial game of quiots.

Kulick made three straight ringers and Miller one.

Company "C's" baseball team, under the leadership of Manager Sheldon Horton, after losing the first two games, recuperated and played sensational ball to win twelve straight games. Roster: Gumbert, Rain, Luman, Kinnel, Smith, McCoy, Mickle, Lasle, Sprages, Baughma, Rosensteel, Schmidt.

In shooting on the range Company "C" was almost 100 per cent.

On Sundays, Tent 4 was considered the library. The men always bought three or four papers.

COMPANY "D" HISTORY

ROY LOVE

On July 1, 1925, new and experienced men were assigned to a company that is popularly known as Company "D" or a fighting machine gun company—the only one in the first battalion; it is also the smallest company in camp. But size does not count when it comes to noise (ask Lieut. Kelly).

Our company consisted of greenhorns, as this is the first year that CMTC's were allowed to handle the deadly weapon, commonly known as the machine gun. But the green stuff soon left the whole crew and when those lieutenants got control of us they had us working in a great manner and at the first week's inspection our second platoon took camp honors.

Our company is one of the only two in camp and we all know that Company "M" is not in the race with Company "D" as we had about the best officers to train us and the best of non-coms to teach us the use of the machine gun—Sergeants Anderson and Barley, who are two very good machine gunners and have been in action during the World War where they both participated in many important battles, which goes to prove they ought to know their stuff.

Speaking of hardships, you know all of us have hard times when we are down-hearted and blue. Some of us were a bit downcast but time shows a good man never "squawks"; so we soon quit and showed the rest of the camp that, although there are a good many Basics, we are always happy. The greenness was taken out of our men.

But laying all kidding aside, ask anyone who were our company's greatest men, and they will answer Vaseline Sheik (John Tosh) and John Drinkwater (W. D. Smith). It is not my fault, as that is the opinion of most all of our company. I almost forgot we had another famous man, Doctor Srodes, a future Doctor of Medicine at Beaver, Pa.

We also had some famous "Gold Brickers", namely, B. L. Soyster, I. L. Lutz, R. W. Howell, all of whom have accomplished very successful work in these mentioned trades this year. We will be the true defenders of this grand old U. S. A.

BLUE AND WHITE MEN OF CO. "D"

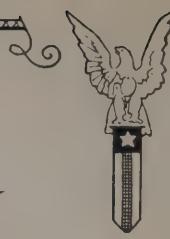

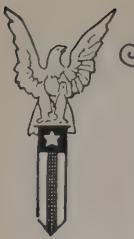

There once was a corporal named Ryan,
To drive a mean mule he was tryin'.
He got back of the critter and Gosh!
 how he bitter—
Now old Ryan is sighing in Zion.

A SOLDIER'S DREAM
Just put me in the bath house and let the water run,
Turn on the big electric fan and shade me
 from the sun,
Connect me with the ice house and hold me on the line
And I don't care what becomes of me in the good old camping time.

Cheery Onkst—"Get out of my way, man, I'se de champion of dis here camp."

Blady Teraman—"I don't believe you but I ain't taking no unnecessary risks."

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY-GANG
REAR ROW—Onkst, McCall, Liebegott,
Drum

named Cheesy, otherwise known as Onkst. and still look as innocent as Saint Peter himself. Around me I saw an enormous cavity yawning with a five inch breach which seemed to spread over a whole face. Out of the chaos slowly came a facial resemblance to a human being. I found out later its tag was "Jim". True nomenclature—Liebegott. I heard a knock at the door of the tent. "Pardon me, gentlemen, but I can't find the key to my tent," a high voice said. "Come on in," I answered. The boards creaked, the tent shook and in came what looked like about three hundred pounds of beef. Drawing himself up to his full five-nine, he said, "My name is Mike McCall." Thus our gang was united in felicity of spirit. Our motto was, "Do as you would be done by—but do it first". To make a perfect "hole" came a last recruit—Dale Fleming—a perfect model of flaming youth. He could saw enough wood between three and four o'clock in the morning to make hot water for the rest of the week. United in spirit and in truth, undaunted throughout four weeks of sand, top-sergeants, tensions, rain, eats and army life, we go back to our homes in the great burg, with a warm spot in our hearts for the friends made in good old Camp Meade.

DO TELL

Captain (speaking of early History)—"Yes, an Indian wife is called a squaw. Now who can tell me what an Indian baby is called?"
Dumb Hutchison—"I know, squawker."

WARNING

St. Peter (to applicant for snowy wings and number 7 halo)—"Did you subscribe for the Camp Annual?"
Applicant—"I did."
St. Peter—"Did you patronize the advertising?"
Applicant—"I forgot."
St. Peter—"Then you don't enter here."

"SO COME ON, BOYS, I SAY"

Now, come on, boys, don't try to hang the bluff,
 For this guy knows his stuff,
 Knows how to treat you ruff,
 So, come on, boys, I say, don't try to hang the bluff.
 Come, right dress there, the sergeant's call obey,
 We're out to march today,
 Let there be no delay,
 So come on, boys, I say, the sergeant's call obey.
 Then forward march, the captain gives command,
 We'll march without the band
 All o'er this sandy land,
 So, "come on, boys", I say, the captain gives command.
 Who said retreat? There's no such word for us,
 We dare not make a fuss,
 Not even say a cuss,
 So, "come on, boys", I say, there's no such word for us.
 "We're out to win," for us there's victory,
 Let this your motto be,
 Be it on land or sea,
 So, "come on, boys", I say, for us there's victory.

AND SO'S THIS

Red—"I think I am quite a musician."
 Smith—"Yes, you ought to be with Caruso."
 Red—"But Caruso is dead."
 Smith—"I know it."

If we were soldiers, soldiers we would be;
 If we were students, students we would be;
 If we were men, men we would be;
 So there you are! We think we are just what we ought to be.

COMPANY "F"

HISTORY OF COMPANY "F"

Our motto: "From a poor start to a good finish."

On July 1st the Medical Department decided that Camp Meade simply had to have a real company, so a carefully selected group was taken from each company, troop and battery. We borrowed a guidon from Company "I" and with the aid of adhesive tape Company "F" came into existence.

We started off with two officers, Captains Strong and Rouse, but before the day was over Captain Turner and Lieutenant Kudlich answered an SOS and reported for duty. We had some non-coms, who were also carefully selected. Some stayed, some didn't. Some went on leave, some went A. W. O. L., but most stayed for the finish.

We finally got organized. The less said about that, the better. However, when we took the oath, Company "F" was first on the field and last off, sustaining its reputation.

The first few days were hard. It was hot. It was wet. The weather was indescribable and so were the remarks of the members of the company.

On the first Tuesday of camp we were pleased and greatly surprised when we were awarded the merit flag of the regiment. Five cameras were broken and a hundred negatives were ruined when the boys had their picture taken beside the flag.

We were working hard, but with time off for refreshments—milk and crackers, thank you. The other companies came around to kid us and stayed to swipe milk whenever they had the chance.

We did squads east and squads west all over the landscape, while the air rang with the agonized cries of the non-coms telling us to close up. We learned to call parts of the rifle by their first names, then promptly forgot them before the hour was over. We had lectures on courtesy and then spent the rest of the day hunting up officers to salute. We had citizenship talks and hygiene lectures, but the speakers talked so loud we couldn't use the time as a rest period.

One sunny Monday morning we paraded; we guess that's when we lost the flag. At least we didn't find the flag when we got back, so we reported it as lost property. We finally decided that the Quartermaster called it in, because we never had it again.

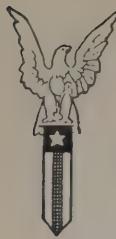

We weren't downhearted but kept on holding pivots and dropping rifles just as if nothing had happened. The next Saturday half the camp moved to Washington, so we went along, too, and came back that evening full of Washington scenery and all kinds of indigestible food. We rested up three days, went to Annapolis and came back feeling the same way.

The rest of the week was spent stretched on the ground wrapped around an army Springfield and, oh, how we liked it. We also stood another parade and some of the more jealous spectators said that our platoon front looked like a skirmish line.

Just about this time the third platoon was getting the best of Corporal Walner, so Lieutenant Merrell, the handsomest officer in the reserve, came down to help us out. He took over the platoon with a determined spirit and really started to make something of it. We won't say what he did make of it, but we'll give him credit for the fact that by the end of camp he was able to tell the Trew twins apart.

Then we went on the range. We were all feeling pretty cocky after we had fired on the gallery range, but the first time some of the boys fired a service charge some of them thought that they had been patted in the face with a mule's hoof.

All lost their temper and about a square inch of skin off of their upper lip before they were through with the range work, while the officers nearly went insane telling the boys to keep their bolts out. The favorite expression for that hectic day was, "For the luvva Mike, keep that gun pointing down the range."

That night, on account of past trouble, it was decided to establish an interior guard in the camp, so immediately after retreat we held an informal guard mount. The guard was there. We'll say it was. So were the boys from the Sixth Field Artillery who had decided on that night as a kind of "coming out party". At midnight the guard went off and the whole camp slept peacefully for the remainder of the night.

Monday, after noon mess, we started out on the "great adventure"—the over-night hike. We pitched our tents at one end of the camp and had chow. There was no trouble that evening, as we all felt tired enough to turn in without running around. We fought all the next morning and came back for our regular mess, having thoroughly enjoyed the battle. We spent the rest of the day turning in equipment and preparing for the grand review of the next day.

Next morning we passed in review for the last time in 1925. Although we did not enjoy the review, we certainly did enjoy the idea that it was our last review. That afternoon the medicos examined us for the 'steeneth and last time. We received our travel papers and finished turning in equipment.

That night was our last in camp. Talk about noise! The rest of the camp thought the prisoners were breaking out of the stockade, but it was only Company "F" celebrating.

The next morning, after kissing all the non-coms good-bye, we started for our homes. Camp Meade was a thing of the past. It was a great experience and most of us lived to tell it. There were some of us unfortunate enough to have spent most of the time in the hospital, but the rest only turned out for sick call when they felt too tired to drill.

It was a great summer and we're coming back again.

WHEN WE RUN THE CAMP

10:30 Reveille—Everybody takes a shot at the bugler.
 10:45 Breakfast—In bad.
 11:15 Bawth—for those who want one.
 11:30 Begin to start work.
 11:40 Finish starting work and begin to rest.
 12:00 Mess. Table d'hôte and à la carte.
 1:00 Afternoon siesta and athletics for the more ambitious boys.
 6:15 Retreat without formation or roll-call.
 8:00 Free movies for the crowd and dancing for the sheiks of the company.
 3:00 Taps.

CAMP RULES

All beds will be made by latrine orderlies.
 No kitchen police and all tableware must be china and solid silver.
 Tents will not be swept out. Wait until enough dirt accumulates and then have the latrine orderly shovel it out.
 Rifles will be carried and cleaned by officers and non-commissioned officers only.
 All property shortages will be written on a cake of ice and the ice placed in the sun.
 No CMT candidate will be permitted to have more than one auto in camp. Any above that number must be maintained at the owner's own expense.

HISTORY OF COMPANY "I"

WARREN KINZEY

On July 1, 1925, the career of Company "I" 12th Infantry, CMTC, was begun. The company consisted of two hundred forty-three young men. These men are from Pennsylvania. Company "I" therefore is one hundred per cent "Keystone State". The first day everyone was kept very busy receiving necessary equipment, taking examinations before being admitted to the camp and also getting settled in quarters with new comrades.

Drilling was started July 2, 1925, without the rifles. Soon the company started to drill with the rifle—an experience much desired by all the students. The heat was so intense that many of the boys were overcome and taken to the dispensary. During our month of hard work one of our comrades took sick and passed away.

Company "I" was well represented in the two trips to Mt. Vernon and Annapolis. On both these trips the boys amused themselves and forgot the hard drilling that was endured at camp.

Company "I" was well represented in the track meet held on the 18th of the month. Richard Detwiller, a Basic student, won both the one and two-mile race.

Monday, July 20, demonstrations were given at Admiral Hill by the Infantry, Cavalry, Field Artillery, Engineers and Tank Corps. Each branch of service gave a fine demonstration in its line of work and was enjoyed immensely by the members of the CMTC and visitors.

Tuesday, July 21, we went to the gallery range and fired several shots to get used to the rifle and Wednesday the 22nd we were taken to the rifle range and practiced shooting, while Friday the 24th we fired for record. We are proud to say we have one hundred sixty-one who qualified as marksmen.

An overnight hike and maneuver was staged July 28-29 which Company "I" enjoyed very much, although it was hard work.

Wednesday morning, July 29, was the final review of the CMTC students by Brigadier General LaRoy S. Upton, commander of the 16th Infantry Brigade. General Upton gave the boys a short talk and presented the medals to the CMTC students for the most efficiency during the month of July.

Thursday morning, July 30, the date of departing arrived and all were ready to return to their homes where they will continue their various walks of life, never to forget the good time they spent at Camp Meade during the month of July 1925.

What good is sunshine when you are blue,
When there is no one who cares for you?
The birds are singing songs by the score,
And you just wonder whom they're singing for.

What good is moonlight when you're alone
And everybody else is gay?
No one to talk to but the telephone
And your Sweetie is miles away.

But when your thirty days are over
And from camp life you are free,
Ain't it a grand and glorious feeling,
This life in the CMTC?

LONGFELLOW 2ND (TED SHUMWAY)

"OUR DAY"

E. VICTOR HANEY AND H. FRANK SCHWARTZ

At 5:45 in the morning,
We are called from our cozy beds,
We put on our clothes in a hurry, . . .
Go to the bath house and wash our heads.

At 5:55 in the morning
Before we can hardly see,
We assemble out front in a body
To start snappy reveille.

At 6:00 we form another line
And push, say! we know how,
For this is a popular duty,
It means we are going to chow.

Sometimes chow's to our liking,
Sometimes it gives us a pain,
But being dutiful soldiers
We never praise or complain.

As soon as we are through eating
We assemble before a wash tub,
Dip our mess kits into the water
And give them a half cleansing scrub.

Everything's clean in the army,
And so are our tents, you must know.
So then at exactly seven-thirty
Out to the drill field we go.

We drill for four long hours
Out in the boiling sun,
And march to the count of a sergeant
And shoulder a nine pound gun.

Now marching back to quarters
Puts life into the platoons,
For the gang begins to whistle
And sing familiar tunes.

We have to wash very quickly,
We haven't much time to rest,
For mess will sound in a hurry—
That's the call which we love best.

When we get back to our quarters,
As we always do without fail,
Our good friend, the mail orderly
Is ready to give out the mail.

And having received the message
From those to us so dear,
We are off to our athletics
With our hearts quite full of cheer.

We eat again, glad to say,
And then we start retreat,
Now this poem's over
Because the day's complete.

HISTORY OF COMPANY "K"

LESTER S. HAMMEL

Up to a certain point the history of all the CMTC companies is identical—that is, we arrived, they weighed, measured and tested us, took away our clothes and gave us others that fitted either like a tent or like a glove. But once organized, "K" Company showed individuality. We were selected as the best company in the battalion for the first week and remained so, altho' the rating officer refused to see it.

For the first two weeks the schedule was drill, drill, drill. For a while it seemed impossible, but finally the poor Basic students learned to march without bumping their chins on their knees, to face about without falling over their feet, to do "squads east" and everything a soldier does. Some of them, however, have a decided list to starboard from carrying a rifle.

The third week was rifle week, and we learned that it is not considered good form to shut one's eyes when firing a rifle, nor to heave too heartily on the trigger.

We learned also that a rifle always has a good comeback, no matter what you say to it. It was during this week that the local chapter, Order of the Knights of the Brown Derby, was organized, the prime qualification for admission being a marked tendency to do things in any but the right way. The Order flourished and had a large membership.

We went out on maneuvers during the last week. We marched out to Edgewood Hill and bivouaced for the night. After chow we had a good time with stunts and a sing-song, and experienced no difficulty in sleeping on the ground. One budding soldier came equipped with pajamas, bedroom slippers and powder puff, only to learn that he was not even allowed to undress.

Among the high spots of the month were the deluge, when we all donned bathing suits and splashed and rolled and swam in the muddy water, and the demonstration of combatant arms, which, Ritter remarked, was just like the Fourth of July at Lewistown. There were several reviews, at which we were given the privilege of looking at General Upton as we stumbled by.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation of the efforts of our company commander, Captain Estes, and the officers and regular personnel who assisted in the task of making soldiers and gentlemen out of a crowd of boys. They had a difficult task and performed it well.

Among the officers, Lieutenant Langeluttig deserves special mention, because he is the only one who stayed with us throughout the camp. "He's a jolly good fellow". Of the regulars, Sgt. Klayer, acting first sergeant, was the most familiar figure. It was his whistle that spoiled our "bunk fatigue" so frequently. Our drill masters, Sergeants Herman, Alexander and Lorah and Corporal Haley are respected and liked by their pupils, the consensus of whose opinion is that "they sure know their stuff".

We leave camp, unquestionably benefited, but glad to think of home again.

BEST FORMATION AT RETREAT

HOW TO LIE DOWN

THE WISDOM OF COMPANY "K"

He who cleans his teeth has good taste.
 You must retire with a clean mouth to have sweet dreams.
 To be dependable is better than to be pious.
 If you desire to see my light you must minister oil to my lamp.
 If you are not kind you are the wrong kind.
 The strength of the nation depends on the health of its people.
 Are you emphasizing the things that are more excellent?
 Many a man has dug his grave with his tongue.
 The closed mouth and the open mind get a man farther than the open mouth and the closed mind.
 The thinkers will not drink. The drinker cannot think.
 Cleanliness is a life preserver.
 "Friends, Romans, Countrymen, wash your ears."
 The first course of every meal should be served in a wash bowl. Clean hands and clean face.
 The cleaner the teeth the broader the smile.
 Brush your teeth as well as your shoes.
 The best pastry for the sweet tooth is tooth paste.
 When you come to the end of a perfect day—clean your teeth.
 An army without officers would be a ludicrous affair. And yet that's the way most of us fight the battle of life.
 Character is transformed by the influence of our fellowships.
 Recreation is merely the flowers on the table, not the roast.
 Taking a bath is one of the few democratic habits royalty can indulge in and still retain its dignity.
 A cotton washcloth can make you feel finer than silk.
 Morning showers awake your powers.

H I S H I G H N E S S

Oh, who is this approaching
 All decked in medals bright?
 With "Sam Brown" belt and bright puttees,
 Insignias left and right?
 He is a general surely,
 You could tell that from afar,
 But resting on his shoulders
 Is a small GOLD BAR.

"That this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."—Lincoln.

"Be manly for God's sake, and Godly for man's sake."—Murray.

"Whatever makes men good Christians, makes them good citizens."—Webster.

"Government is a trust, and the officers of the government are trustees, and both the trust and trustees are created for the benefit of the people."—Clay.

"I do the very best I know how, the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end."—Lincoln.

"We, Sir, are Americans, and we fight for human liberty. The uplifting force of the American idea is under every throne on earth."—Grady.

"There are two freedoms, the false, where a man is free to do what he likes; the true, where a man is free to do what he ought."—Kingsley.

"Be ashamed to die until you have gained some victory for humanity."—Mason.

"Humanity has won its suit (in America) so that Liberty will never more be without an asylum."—Lafayette.

HISTORY OF COMPANY "L"

JOHN E. LAMPE

Although July 1st, 1925, marked the beginning of Company "L", the Philadelphia company is one of the oldest military organizations still preserved by the U. S. Army. Company "L" of the Regulars is rated as one of the best companies in existence, and we, the CMTC students, are doing our best to retain this distinction.

We are, however, more concerned with the records of this year's CMTC. With very few exceptions, the 215 boys of our company hail from the Quaker City in the only and original Keystone state. Many have military training throughout the year at different military academies and also under the jurisdiction of the Post Number 1, Philadelphia, CMTC.

We arrived together on the Camp Meade special, bright and early, on July 1st. All admitted that the first day was a busy one for each and everyone of us.

We passed another physical examination, after which we were issued our outfit, and temporarily assigned to the tents which replaced last year's barracks.

The next day our hardships began on the drill field. We were instructed in the school of the soldier, squad and company, under orders from our company commander, Captain Touart, assisted by his able Lieutenants, McMeniem and Storck, the latter a recent graduate of West Point Military Academy.

We are proud of our record this year, for the company held first place for neatness and drill more than any other company. For one week it was our honor to be "color company" and to carry the red, white and blue banner marked "Best CMTC Company". Frank Hoffner has insisted on taking the honors for the best Blue Course candidate of the battalion, while Nelson Ellison, White Course; Harold Carroll, Red Course; and Jack Wieland, Basic Course, have led in their respective classes.

The company boasts of the only Bugle and Drum Corps in this year's CMTC Camp. The Company "L" volleyball team has made an enviable record in the CMTC League. Under the direction of Captain George L. Mull the group of "greenies" was quickly rounded into shape and did not lose a game all season. The boys are all proud of the fine medals which they were given on the last day of camp. The baseball team could not hold first place minus the services of Coach Slattery. However, Coach Bengert and Captain Grady deserve credit for their fine work.

The volleyball team consists of the following:

GEORGE L. MULL (Captain)	JACK E. LAMPE (Mgr.)
WILLIAM MCKINLEY	RICHARD O'BRIEN
WILLIAM SULLIVAN	WILLIAM RABINOWITZ
HARRY NENSEL	THEODORE SPECTOR (Sub.)
KENDALL KIKER (Sub.)	WILSON EDWARDS (Sub.)

On Friday, July 17th, Companies "L" and "M", composed of young men from Philadelphia, were honored by a number of noted visitors from that city who gave interesting talks on the camps in general. They told how to be loyal and helpful in time of the country's need.

The address by Theodore Rosen, Civilian Aide to the Secretary of War for the State of Pennsylvania, will never be forgotten. He told how he trained at Camp Meade in 1917, went overseas in the World War, lost his right arm and left eye, but was spared to serve the CMTC and his country.

The moving picture man was also right on deck, eager to get every detail of the doings. After this short gathering all went to the camp's swimming pool.

Eighty per cent of Company "L" qualified as marksmen and received the honor bar.

In the maneuvers we did our share with the Blue army. We formed the advance guard and did our duty.

All of us thank the officers and their able assistants of the Regular Army for the splendid instructions received.

We shall endeavor to carry the standards of Company "L" throughout the great battle of life.

COMPANY SONGS

JOHN E. LAMPE.

(To tune of "It Ain't Gonna Rain no More")

There ain't no flies on "L"	No more soup, and no more beans,
There ain't no flies on "L" "	No more necking Odenton Queens.
There may be flies on Company "K"	Back to Civilization
But there ain't no flies on "L" "Rah" "Rah".	The Special will carry us through.
One more week till vacation	When this cruel war is over,
Then we leave Camp Meade station.	Oh! How happy I will be.
Back to civilization,	No more Saturday inspection
The Special will carry us through.	No more standing reveille.
When I get back in civilians
No more asking for a pass.
No more drilling, gone forever,
We will be through at last.

A cold bath will be found more pleasant if made with hot water.

Red—"The Captain said I must go home. I'm flunked. So I wrote father for something to go home on."

Teddy—"What did he send?"

Red—"A pair of shoes."

Staff Colonel Thurn—"Your reports should be written in such a manner that even the most ignorant may understand them."

Sergeant Noakes—"Well, sir, what part is it that you don't understand?"

There are several ways of using baked ham. One of the best is to eat it.

Honey may be used for sweetening almost anything but the top sergeant.

Jack—"I saw two girls fighting in front of the post office the other day."

Jim—"Did you stop them?"

Jack—"No."

Jim—"Why?"

Jack—"Because I saw a sign "Letter Box".

"O Irony Austere"—An old soldier who fought at Gettysburg says that during the thickest of the fight he was impressed by a sign posted on a tree reading: "No shooting on these premises under penalty of the law."

HE WAS SO SURPRISED

A man with only one arm had just stepped from a railroad train when an inquisitive woman on the platform walked up to him and remarked: "I beg your pardon, sir, but I see you have lost your arm."

The man glanced down in a surprised manner and replied: "Hanged if I haven't!"

JUST IMAGINE

Lieutenant Merrill without his schoolgirl complexion.

Carroll ever agreeing with Husted.

Murtaugh washing his clothes.

Edwards cracking a smile.

Rhodes staring at a five dollar bill.

Wieland not at any formation.

Mull missing a letter a day.

The baseball team winning a game.

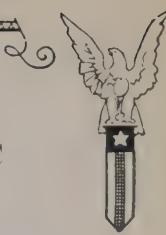

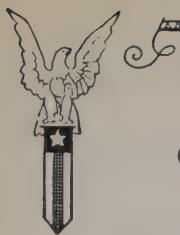

"K" Company taking our banner away from us.

COMPANY "M"

HISTORY OF COMPANY "M"

BENSON SCHAMBELAN

Our company came into existence on the morning of July 1st and, from the very start, we put ourselves to the front. In his first talk to the company, Captain Finley, our commanding officer, told us that Company "M" of the regular army stood near the top of the regiment and that it was up to us, its pupils, to follow its example. We have all tried hard to carry out his advice and as a result we certainly have taken more than our share of the honors in the various activities into which our representatives entered.

The first step in Company "M's" life was the "processing", by which, in the short space of one or two hours, we were converted from civilians into student soldiers. Each step of the processing remains distinct in our memories—the stripping of civilian clothes and placing them in a barracks bag; then the minute examination by the physicians; the measurement for clothing; the frantic and flustered dressing in our new attire, (especially the rolling of our puttees); and finally the return to the company street, and the assignment to our tents—each step remains clear and distinct in our memories.

Thus did our company begin its existence on Wednesday, July 1st. On Thursday we commenced our drilling, which was to continue for the rest of the month. Our work on the machine guns commenced several days later. The stripping and assembling of the machine guns proved to be interesting work and when we finally went on the range and actually used real bullets we gave ourselves to our work with particular zeal.

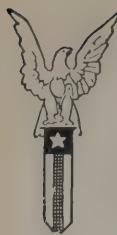

For the greater part of our stay our company held first place for having the best policed area and the cleanest and neatest tents in camp. For the week ending July 11th, Joseph A. Lee was judged the second best White student in camp and for the same period our first platoon and its fourth squad were judged the best units in camp, a position which these units maintained for the greater part of our stay here. Great credit must be given to Jack W. Evans, the acting corporal of the 4th squad, and also to Platoon Leader Brothers, of these units, for the success in maintaining their high standard. William Ross, Basic, William Ramon, Red, Joseph A. Lee, White, and Donald Beatty, Blue, were the best in their respective classes as far as the competition in the company was concerned and they had to work hard to keep their places. Blue students Ware, Beatty and Brothers took the examination for reserve commissions.

Not only did our company succeed in the field of drill, but in athletics as well. Our volleyball team, under the able coaching of Private Ernest M. Hall, stood at the top of the league, and the soccer team captained by Shuster won the championship. Our baseball team held its own quite well and our track team, with Tinkler as the mainstay, certainly outshone all others. Great credit is due to Jack Tinkler for his work in the field events. In the meet with the ROTC, our company was responsible for more than half the total score of the CMTC. This was due to Jack Tinkler's marvellous form in taking first place in the javelin throw, the running broad jump and the pole vault. The entire company congratulates him on his success and wishes him still greater success in the future. In swimming, also, our company took several events, Ware in the 100 yard breast stroke race being the outstanding star. Several members of the company were picked to act as life savers at the swimming pool and made quite an impression on the lady bathers, Gilvary and Schambelan being particularly successful.

Certainly we should feel proud if these were the only things of which we could boast, but we have even more. Unquestionably we have the largest collection of mustached

PRIZE FOR BEST MESS
WON BY COMPANY "M"

CMTC candidates in the camp. There were Sylk, Tobler, Russell, Sigmund, Shane, Brothers, and others too numerous to mention. Our company can also lay claim to having in its ranks the heaviest man in camp, Danny Marony, one of our White students. It might be mentioned in passing that Danny desires to attend another CMT Camp this summer. Apparently, it agrees with him.

All in all, Company "M" is proud of its record and in spite of hot sun, severe electric storms, the rigors of K. P., table waiter and room orderly assignments, in spite of the many petty details which sometimes irritate, the historian is sure that every member of Company "M" enjoyed his stay in camp and, in parting, the historian takes this opportunity of thanking all the officers, reserve officers, non-commissioned officers and all other enlisted men who helped to make our month's stay so pleasant and enjoyable.

DON'T SAY

"Longfellow said that in this world a man must be either an anvil or a hammer."
 "He was wrong. Some men are merely bellows."

Hard Rookie—"Gee, you look so innocent you must think Rockefeller built the Rocky Mountains."

Ditto—"You've got me wrong; say, I'm so tough when I strike Niagara Falls. That's not all, I've got a concrete stomach and when I drink a glass of water half of it splashes back."

TENT NO. 4 The Way of Six Fellows

Burns (with an ever watchful eye over a first class bunk)—"Who disrumped my boudoir?"

Schwartz—"Hey, Kern, give me a cigarette."

Sheldow—"Are there any girls in Baltimore?"

Kern (Getting in his bunk after tattoo)—"Whose bullfrog is this?"

The Six Sleepers (On their knees)—"Here comes Schemeck (African golf expert) duck those bones."

Beatty—"Who took my pants?"

SECOND Row—Nichols, Rodgers, Cohen, Spry, Russell

BACK Row—Fisher, Read, Spiller, Boyce

CAN YOU IMAGINE—

Sergeant Anderson oversleeping?
 Jimmy Taylor without his banjo?
 "Half Pint" Stevens satisfied at mess?
 George M. Cohen silent for a minute?
 Dan Marony tipping the scales at 98?
 The "Sheiks" (Diamond, Sylk and Goodman) not getting at least five letters a day?

Jackson not saying "registered post card" when handing out a post card?

The Mess Hall with an oversupply of pie or ice cream?

A mark of 140 on 1000 range practice?

Finkle not taking first place in javelin, pole vault and broad jump?

Ben Schambelan not asking you to do some work for the Defender?

The rookie happy in getting K. P. the second time?

A better volleyball coach than "Red" Hall?

Bill Ross serious for more than two minutes?

Shepter saying, "Never mind that K. P. assignment, it's a mistake?"

Sergeant Cantrell without his smile?

Captain Hamilton telling Tinkler to get a shave?

Rutledge going around without grease on his hair?

A whole month in camp without K. P., without reveille, without C. C. pills, without rain, without maneuvers?

Sibley doing a Sunday K. P.?

Jackson delivering mail between hours?

P. Strauss with his hair combed?

Teets (Lighting) taking a bath?

Brown without his baseball suit.

Pretty girls in tent twenty-three?

Corporal Elliott at work?

Jones with a pair of size five shoes on?

Lennon without his hair combed?

Gilvary being knocked out by Jackson?

Schambelan not working for the Defender?

Evans giving a command?

Westover's wife?

Quiet after tattoo?

William Kelly without a smile?

Lieutenant Connor looking angry?

Rehrig without his cat?

Joe Ansley walking back from Washington?

Shepter minus his authority?

Henry Williams without his blush?

Slim Stevenson in a gym suit?

Stevens agreeing with the captain?

Cohen when he wasn't on sick report?

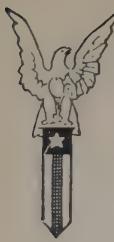

A better man than Captain Finley?

THE K. P.'S NIGHTMARE

WHAT A WHALE OF A DIFFERENCE A FEW DENTS MAKE!

What it takes to make you glad
We are not prepared to say,
But we would all be happy
If we had
What we are wishing you today.

SMILE

The thing that goes the farthest
Towards making life worth while,
That costs the least, and does the most
Is just a little smile.

—Bernard Goodman

THAT'S NO LIE

Corporal Jackson, Co. "M"—"There must be a Santa Claus if people believe in evolution." Cohen

CAPTAIN FINLEY

A broad shouldered man with face of tan,
Approaches the field once more,
Very earnest indeed, and ready at need,
Our dear old Captain Finley.

OUR COMPANY

Yes, they were all fine fellows, all of them,
In our dear old Company "M",
We'd work and play, but never slack,
You bet your life we're coming back.

We are the boys of Company "M",
We're having lot's of fun
We play from early in the morn
Until the set of sun!

As we go marching and the band begins to play,
You'll hear them shouting, "The boys of Company "M" are on their way."

Captain Finley (to CMTC Candidates)—
"Yes, boys, that case is for your magazines."

Private Ryan—"Gee, how can you squeeze a Saturday Evening Post in one of them?"

Sergeant—"When did you get that black eye?"

Private—"From Kelly, sir."

Sergeant—"Well, where's your proof?"

Private—"Here it is plainly in black and

HISTORY OF TROOP "E"

How good it was to get back again to old Camp Meade and see the old familiar sight. Even the murmurings and exclamations of the tender-footed yearlings who had seen the military center for the first time had been amusing, for we had all gone through the same thing and knew how strange everything was at first. After all the men were examined physically and fitted out with uniforms that would make any tailor's dummy green with envy, they were sent to their "homes" from the QMC, mounted on trucks.

It was not long before the boys were on different mounts. They were not trucks by any means and the way those animals of Uncle Sam's cavorted about over the sand was a sight to behold. Before the first day's riding was over most of the new men were wondering whether they had not been placed in the aviation school by mistake. However, on second thought, they presumed everything was all right, because there was a distinctive odor which prevailed in the vicinity of the stables that is not peculiar to airplanes at all. The best sight of all was to watch the greenhorn as he stepped carefully and gingerly around the horse which he was attempting to bridle, in the vain hope of applying a saddle at a later date. This procedure invariably ended by having the horse plant his hoof upon the foot of the youngster, who proceeded to kick the horse's shins and emit various sounds of great intensity.

After horsemanship had been mastered and the whole Troop was well versed in equitation, we turned to pistols and machine guns for amusement. To tear between two targets mounted on a horse going at a gallop, and plant shots in targets on your right and left with an automatic, is a feat of which one may surely be proud. Not only pistol-work was featured but machine guns were gone over so carefully that there was not a single man in the Troop who could not strip and put together a "typewriter" at one A. M. of the darkest night.

It would be possible to go on forever in a description of the good times we had in this month at Meade with our mounted drill, our hikes, our maneuvers, our mess, our clean, good bunch of ripping fellows which had an esprit-de-corps that could well be envied by any other unit in camp.

Troop "E" feels grateful to its officers and to its regulars without whom it would have never been able to reach its high proficiency in the essentials in Cavalry work. We thank them and will prove, next year when we come back, that they have not labored in vain with the boys who were lucky enough to have chosen the Cavalry which has as its inscription, "Brave Rifles! Veterans! You have Been Baptized in Fire and Blood and Have Come Out Steel!"

TROOP "E"

CAVALRY

APPRECIATION

CLARENCE A. MOYER

Troop "E" is the first on the rack, it leads first in police of quarters and ranks as the A-1 Troop of the squadron. In short, it is the best Troop in the entire CMTC Cavalry. All that Troop "E" has accomplished is due to our Troop Commander, Captain Minnich. He is a member of the ORC, 62nd Div., 308th Cavalry, stationed at Chambersburg, Pa. The Troop Commander has done his work well and has led us to all the success that we have attained.

Then we come to our old faithful Captain Bush. Captain Bush is a member of ORC, 62nd Div., 308th Cavalry, stationed at New Bethlehem, Pa.

Captain Bush is a man to whom credit is due for the most creditable performance of Troop "E". He was with the Troop heart and soul. His greatest desire was to see us win. His faithful work and our co-operation have led us to accomplish the results we have attained.

It was with regret that we witnessed the departure of Captain Bush. He was with us but fifteen days. It was our desire that he remain till the end of our training period, July 30th. We are sure that if he had stayed we would have remained at the top of the list in the CMTC Cavalry.

We extend to Captain Bush the wish for the greatest of success in business and in civilian life. We sincerely hope that he can be with us again next year, not only for fifteen days, but for the entire camp.

Some time he may have sounded mad, no doubt he was.

But our good old faithful Captain Bush, always the man he was.

He stood for right and nothing else.

The man that never wronged

Was our good old faithful Captain Bush who lived the life and thronged.

FORMULA FOR A HAPPY LIFE

JOHN F. BARRETT

For growing old gracefully, and for getting the most fun out of life, I have a formula:
"Keep limber and loving and a little bit loony."

Limber, physically, by taking enough vigorous exercise every day to send the ozone coursing through every tissue and organ of the body; limber, mentally, by cultivating a lively interest in a variety of things, maintaining at all times an open, judicial mind on all debatable questions.

Loving, in the sense of feeling and manifesting an unselfish kindness toward our fellows, and toward all God's creatures, gently tolerant of men's errors and imperfections, and neglectful of no opportunity to be helpful to the humblest as well as the highest.

A little bit loony, in the tendency to have faith in humanity, however often one's trust is betrayed, and in the willingness to accept, at least as a working hypothesis, those cherished beliefs, however incapable of proof, which clearly promote the well-being, the happiness and the progress of mankind.

"Keep Limber and Loving and a Little Bit Loony"—there's my formula for a happy life, with just enough details and specifications to make it fairly understandable. It is short enough to be engraved on a dime. It is long enough to reach from earth to heaven.

When the frost is on your tent flaps,
 And there are holes in your socks.
 Then it's time to sell your B. V. D's
 And redeem your overcoat from hock.

It's easy enough to be happy
 When the world is gay as can be;
 But the man worth while
 Is the man who can smile
 When the Sergeant gives him K. P.
 —Moyer.

TROOP "F"

CAVALRY

HISTORY OF TROOP "F"

The Cavalry this year was a good example of the CMTC's advancement over preceding years. The greatest aids in this were our officers, which were of the best, and our equipment, also of the best. Actual mounted work began the fifth day in camp and progressed rapidly with no serious mishaps. Now this may not seem unusual, but you must consider that about one-fifth of the outfit had never been on a horse before (except possibly a merry-go-round). Put them on U. S. Cavalry horses, a hundred and fifty of them; it is something to think about. It never could have been done except for the excellent instructors we had in our officers.

It is rather amusing to note how the Exchange was rushed after the first real cross country ride. Mentholatum, the trooper's standby for bruises and disturbed cuticle about the infernal regions, could be sold for almost anything. A lot of the men found it much easier and more pleasant to rest up by taking nice long walks than sitting around the tents.

Speaking of tents. Troop "F" had the neatest looking quarters in Camp at the General's inspection. Another of the fourteen points why the Cavalry is the best branch of the service.

From the nature of the work, there were only a few minor casualties in comparison with some of the other outfits. It is strange how a horse shows his affection by reaching energetically to the heavens with his hind feet. In only three cases did the playful little things connect with any part of human anatomy.

The maneuver near the close of camp held a multitude of thrills for the Blues. Owing to a shortage of horses the Blues were mounted while the Reds and Whites acted as dismounted Cavalry. While making a pistol attack about dust, Webb's horse took a spill and knocked its rider loose from his wind for awhile. But the real thrills came when we got back to camp and went to water about 10:30 o'clock. It was so dark you couldn't see your hand in front of you, and the water was about a quarter of a mile through woods and the doughboy's camp. If you have never tried to ride bareback at night with only a halter, you have missed a lot. Field was just about to try to mount when a horse bolted between him and his nag, gently knocking him cockeyed against a tree. Bilter caught Field's horse but one animal deliberately went on one side and Bilter just stayed there while the ponies frolicked away into the night. Myers was unceremoniously ushered into an officer's tent, but as he was on a non-stop flight, he didn't leave his card. Carey got tangled up on a wagon tongue and finally landed into the doorway of another tent. In looking for his hat he grabbed a puttee-covered leg and soon had the owner very much awake. In the maneuvers the next day, we succeeded in taking the opposing Cavalry four times.

Prime is thinking of becoming a Rural Delivery mail carrier upon his return to civilization in the sticks of Emporium. He has had so much good practice in Camp and seems to like the job immensely.

We are indeed pleased to announce that there was but one acute case of love-sickness in the Troop. French was the unhappy victim and surely was a heart-rending sight as he lay on his bunk for hours pining for his loved one.

Wirth, the hotel magnate from Allentown, may possibly develop into a rider in time. He hasn't fallen from his noble steed since the first week.

You will never realize the horrors of trying to shift gears on an old plug until you have had a heart-to-heart talk with the Captain. Steiny is another candidate for the post office department in Pittsburgh.

Time and space forbid to give a complete history of the noble Troop "F". Our drills, our hikes, our nights of fun, our "mess", our clean good bunch of fine ripping fellows gave us untold delight and made us eager to return next year.

Troop "F" feels grateful to its officers and to its regulars without whom it would have never been able to reach its high proficiency in the essentials of Cavalry work. It is our hope to prove to them that their labor has not been in vain.

Ray, Ray, Troop "F"—The Cavalry!

DEDICATED TO TROOP "F"
3RD CAVALRY, CMTC

JULY, 1925

Since my return to civil life from Camp Meade, Md., after 30 days duty as Commanding Officer, Troop "F" 3rd Cavalry, CMTC, I have tried to re-adjust my life from the military to the civil with very little success.

I have been striving to put aside forever visions and recollections which have a trick of arising each time I close my eyes. I have been endeavoring to erase the aftermath of those memorable 30 days, during which I had the honor and everlasting pleasure of commanding and training a Troop of 61 CMTC Cavalrymen. Sixty-one boys of the highest type of American manhood, clean, upstanding, imbued with enthusiasm in their work and lovers of man's true friend, the Cavalry horse.

I have found that it is futile to attempt to forget, and, strangely enough, I do not want to forget those scenes and my associations with those splendid boys, whose conduct throughout the entire training period was excellent and on a par with that of troops of long training and who, at the close of Camp, had reached a stage of efficiency commented upon by the Commanding General.

Of my many years of military career, the assignment as Commanding Officer of Troop "F" is to me the most pleasant and one I shall always remember. I am confident that each one is justly proud as I am of the record of Troop "F", made possible only through the unfailing co-operation of those composing it.

The presentation to me by the entire Troop, at our last formation, of a pair of silver spurs and officer's riding gloves, revealing their loyalty and affection for me, will ever remain a vivid spot in my mind and heart. May the years to come hold for each of them all that is good and deserving, and throughout those years may memories of our service together constantly recur, bringing with it enriching thoughts, to the twilight of our lives, of work well done and pride in the service of our beloved Country.

Faithfully,

WALTER P. KING,
Captain, Cavalry

TRUTHS

HARRY F. SHIELDS

Instructor—"What would you do if you were coming down a road and saw an enemy sniper aiming a gun at you?"

CMTC—"I'd say my prayers, sir."

The Officer of the Day was making his rounds to see if everyone was all right, when he came across a CMTC sleeping in a cramped position. The O. D. shook him and said—"Say, don't you know how to sleep?"

"I ought to," was the drowsy reply; "I've been doing it for nineteen years."

At the firing range, a CMTC was having great difficulty in hitting a target. After missing several shots the Captain got sore and told the student to go shoot himself. Several minutes afterward a report was heard from behind a tree. The Captain went white and madly sprinted toward the place where the gun went off. As he neared it, the student appeared with his face marked with burnt powder and said, "Sorry, sir, I missed again."

A SOLDIER'S PRAYER

W. R. MURPHY

Now I lay me down to sleep;
 I pray the Lord my gum to keep;
 Let no other soldier take
 My sox or shoes before I wake.

Keep me safely in Thy sight;
 Cause no fire drills in the night;
 And at morning let me wake,
 Breathing scents of sirloin steak.

Spare me from all work and drills;
 And when sick, don't feed me pills.
 Should I hurt this head of mine,
 Paint it not with iodine.

Take me back into the land
 Where they walk without a band,
 Where no pesky bugle blows,
 And where women wash the clothes.

In a cozy feather bed,
 There I long to lay my head,
 Far away from camping scenes,
 And the smell of half baked beans.

Lord, Thou knowest my every care—
 Harken then, to this, my prayer—
 Hasten days of peace again;
 Calm and draftless, Lord, Amen.

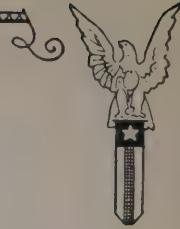

TROOP TRICKS

The soothing power of a girl's love-letter was proved one night in Troop "F" 3rd Cavalry, when a Maryland boy wrathfully discovered that several Philadelphia youths, namely, Al Leitch, 6511 Mosner St.; Nelson Ritchie, 34 S. 61st St.; Bob Lyons, 2332 East Clearfield St.; Benj. R. Scales, 4727 Hazel Ave.; Frank Kelley, of Merion, Pa. and O. R. Webb, an Alden, Pa. boy, had "short-sheeted" him. "Short-sheeting," by the way of explanation, is a system frequently used in boys' camps by which the sheets of a bed are folded so that the occupant-to-be on sliding between the sheets is prevented from pushing his feet further than half way down.

When the victim found himself "short-sheeted" the air took on a bluish tinge from the expletives and threats of death. Nelson Ritchie told the wrathful one that someone had put a letter from his lady love in his bed for safe-keeping. After the letter-quieted victim had read his sweetheart's words of adoration with much eagerness he surprised his tent-mates by congratulating them on their cleverness in "short-sheeting" him so that he would be sure to get his letter.

Sunday, some of the "Regulars" of Troop "F", 3rd Cavalry, had a great time showing the CMTC boys here tricks on bareback for the benefit of some by-standing female visitors.

The regular army "mule-skinners" furnish quite some amusement for the CMTC Cavalry candidates. Every evening at about 7 o'clock these mule-drivers meet near their stables and pair off for wrestling matches. The losers of these matches have to board "Handsome", a constantly bucking mule. The by-standers get many a thrill as the saddleless animal tries with kicks, twists, and lunges to unseat his praying rider. The rider must control his explosive mount with only a halter. The "mule-skinners" have offered to give two dollars to any CMTC boy who will even get on "HANDSOME'S" back. As yet no one has taken advantage of that generous offer.

TROOP "G"

HISTORY OF TROOP "G"

JACK TURNER

Although the history of Troop "G" is short, we have just cause to be proud of it. The Troop was organized only this year, but if the deeds of the past month become traditions, her banner will always forge to the front.

First Lieutenant S. P. Walker is responsible for our success, and through all the years of the existence of Troop "G" his name should be closely connected with that of the organization, as his personality was in its establishment.

Our Troop was largely composed of men hailing from Washington, D. C., and we hope in time to be known as "Capital Troop", and represent the city on the drill field.

Our ratings were:

Best Troop in the squadron; Sergeant David Auld, Washington, was the best Blue student in the squadron; Corporal Glen Hebert, Washington, the best White student in the squadron; and Private Nelson Waller, Washington, the best Red student in Camp.

The First Platoon, commanded by Sergeant William J. Turner, Jr., Washington, was rated the best in Camp.

The Sixth Squad, commanded by Corporal Glen Hebert, was rated the best in the squadron.

Every man in Troop "G" qualified as a marksman or better with the pistol; ninety-five per cent of the men qualified as marksmen or better with the rifle.

We believe that Troop "G" was the only organization in Camp whose Blue students passed the examination for reserve commissions 100 per cent. David Auld, Craig Carmack, Paul Chalupsky, and William J. Turner, Jr., who served as sergeants in the CMTTC this year, were recommended for commissions as second lieutenants.

Troop "G" was 104% subscribed to the Camp Annual.

SOLDIER'S AWAKENING

WILLIAM J. TURNER, JR.

Before the sun's onrushing wave of light
 The shadows flee.
 Blows reveille,
 Calling to me
 To find in consciousness delight.
 To witness towering hill's magic change,
 As, freed from sombre cloak of night
 They spread their loveliness to sight
 And quick become a rolling range;
 To find in life a mighty urge
 To breast the ocean's angry surge;
 To fleet my fancies on and on
 Far past the portals of the dawn,
 Into the land of the Rising Sun—
 And where the errant moonbeams run—
 When reveille
 Calls out to me.

SOMETHING TO EAT

They call it Pie and Ice Cream in Baltimore
 And call it Pie-a-la-mode in Pittsburgh
 But it sure would be called a miracle at Camp.

A FINE SIGHT

Sergeant to Rookie—"What is a fine sight?"
 Rookie, hesitating—"Sergeant, well?"
 Sergeant—"Well?"
 Rookie—"A fine sight to me would be to see a boat load of you Sergeants drown."

HALL OF FAME

During the four weeks that we have been associated in the Troop we have made certain observations. Irrespective of the official rating board, we nominate the following men to our Hall of Fame:

Biggest dumbbell	Alexander
Honorable mention	Hilder, Wetmore, Long
Champion Toreador	Turner (Hume and Long tie for second)
Laziest	Woodward
Gloomiest	McKinney
Biggest Sap	Dismer (Unanimous)
Best Behaved	Auld
Handsomest	Clevenger (Including mustache)
Most Athletic	Dave Taylor
Funniest	Hanna
Biggest Brute	Baum and Letvin
Most Studious	Chalupsky
Sleepiest	Baum
Sheikiest Sheik	Long
Horseshoe Champ	Hoffman
Hardest Boiled	Cormack
Reddest Red	Kerns
Snappiest Dresser	Brandon
Marathon Eating Champ	Heintz

A HOT DAY

First man—"What are you sweating about?"

Hot man—"About the face, you fool."

How did you get all those callouses on your hands?
We just finished calisthenics.

Who was that lady I saw you horseback riding with yesterday?

That wasn't no horse, that was a mule.

What are you sweating about?
Oh, about a pint a minute.

Who was that officer I saw you talking to this morning?

That was no officer; that was a second lieutenant.

"G" TROOP EATING TEAM AGAIN VICTORIOUS

In the final game of the eating teams of Troops "E" and "G", played over a rough course, "G" Troop was again victorious. The score was 657,285 to 436,792 calories. The Troop "E" four fought gamely, but inexperience held them at all times beyond the danger line. Coach Rosenbaum contributed to the downfall of his men when he stepped into their line of vision twice, causing them to laugh and choke. Thrills and penalties featured the contest.

Early in the game Coach Rosenbaum substituted Bachert for Braunstein after the latter cut his mouth severely with his knife. Bachert was visibly nervous when he entered the game. The second jab of his fork went wild and badly lacerated the hand of a spectator. Second Lieutenant Zilp of the Medical Reserve Corps, who was in the mess hall, rendered first aid.

At the beginning of the third course a clever triple play was engineered by Troop "G". The lemonade, with scarcely a drop spilled, was zig-zagged down the line: Turner to Letvin to Chalupsky to Hoffman. Hoffman later attempted a long forward pass with the gravy but it fell short and created a wave of amusement. After the amusement was mopped up the playing was resumed.

The Troop "G" Team was penalized two potatoes in the fourth choker when Turner was charged with wilfully delaying the game by gargling his lemonade. Chalupsky gained 79 calories by a gigantic bolony rush just before the gong ending the sixth round was sounded.

Towards the end of the last quarter, Coach Woodward replaced Hoffman with Heintz after the former, suffering a badly sprained jaw, was assisted from the table.

The old custom of awarding to the winning team the knife, fork, and spoon used in the final game had to be omitted this year, due to the fact that Letvin swallowed the knife in the last inning.

THE LINE-UP

"G" Troop		"E" Troop
Turner (Capt.)	Gulp	Schuster
Chalupsky	Center Cramp	McGovern (Capt)
Letvin	Right Glutton	Braunstein

NOTICE

The 1926 Eating Schedule is now being compiled. Eating teams desiring to enter the 1926 Tournament must file their applications with the Sporting Editor of the Ladies' Home Journal not later than July 1st, 1926.

THE ROVER BOYS
IN THE CAVALRY

(With apologies to Carey Ford)

JACK TURNER

The Rover Boys arrived at Camp Meade in a Quandry. The Quandry had been presented them as a reward for their brave deeds, as narrated in the previous installment entitled: The Rover Boys in the Mess Hall.

"Well, this is amusing!" cried Sam as he climbed from the shining Quandry and picked up the little animal. But no sooner had he uttered the words than, "Ouch!" he yelled. The Musing had sunk its little teeth in his hand. The little animal barked twice and scampered away across the sand.

Just then a soldier appeared and whipped them into a formation. Desperately they battled the waves in the raging formation until they reached the receiving line. They reached up, and grasping the line, pulled themselves to safety. An officer stood at the end of the line. "Give me your name, address, street and serial number," he said.

"Cereal number?" called the fun-loving Rovers in chorus, "Grape-nuts and corn flakes!"

When the laughter died down the boys found themselves at a loss for something to do. They climbed to the top of the hill where they found a pick and shovel.

"I'll take the shovel," cried the mischievous Dick. "Tom, you can have your pick."

Hardly had the boys started work with the pick and shovel, however, when an officer appeared over the edge of the steep loss. He made a deep impression. Sam took a second look at the man and gasped in astonishment. "Dan Baxter," he cried, "How did you get here?"

"Aha," the villian hissed, "I'm a second lieutenant, graduated from CMTC last year. Fall in!" The command snapped from his thin lips like the snap of a steel trap.

Being good soldiers, there was nothing for the boys to do but obey the command of the officer. They fell into the deep impression that he made by his first appearance on the scene.

"We'll have the last word yet!" yelled the indomitable Tom as they fell down and down in the deep impression. What that word was and how it increased the vocabulary of the CMTC students will be told in the next chapter, entitled: "The Rover Boys in Professor Upton's Summer School." It will be in next year's annual. Now let us say good-bye.

There was a young man named McGee
Who came to the CMTC
He was much more wise
Than the Infantry guys
He enrolled in the Cavalree.

Captain Padgett, commanding Troop "G",
Put "see" into CMTC
"D'ye get the point? See?"
"We'll teach you all. See?"
"That's right!! Pay attention to me."

There was once a Captain Buttinski,
Who had neither feeling or senseki.
When he rode on a horse
He looked even worse
Than when he sat on a fenski.
(But he taught us to ride, don't you see?)

HISTORY OF BATTERY "A"

J. E. NEVIN

On July 1, 1925, the prospective members of Battery "A" 6th Field Artillery reported to Camp and went thru a very rapid and well planned "processing". First we were assigned to our Battery and immediately boarded large army trucks which, to many, was a great thrill of army life. Then came the real test. Entering one door of a large building we passed thru stiff physical examination, and before we had reached the exit at the other end we were soldiers fully outfitted with a uniform, a barracks bag which contained all the paraphernalia which would be needed in the course of a month, and the money the government reimbursed us for our transportation. One-half hour was a record time for such maneuver. The rest of the day was consumed in straightening out the equipment issued.

The artillery men of former years met a good number of their old friends. We were all surprised to learn that we were to be assigned to tents, and a great discussion was heard of fellows from the same towns who wanted to bunk in the same tent, which we were to call "home" for a month. We were comfortably settled for a few days and then re-assigned by the Captain in a military manner according to gun sections.

After permanent assignment had been made a great deal of competition was shown by the candidates in the appearance of their tents. Some fellows even went so far as to plant small Christmas trees in front of their tent. Sheen was a little late with his landscape gardening but finally managed to transplant a few weeds.

Officers were assigned and in a few days we were introduced to our horses, which the Reds approached timidly. In equitation the pounding was rather severe for some of us for the first few days. The first week was spent in equitation, team drill and cannoneer drill. Nine days after we arrived at camp the complete battery was limbered up and taken out for reconnaissance and occupation of position, which was considered very good work for the short period of training.

On the tenth we had our first experience with one of Camp Meade's "cyclones" and the members of Tent No. 9 thought they were in the navy, as their floor boards were actually afloat.

After the demonstration on the twentieth the Battery pictures, mounted and dismounted were taken, which turned out very well. We all looked forward to the maneuvers which took place Monday and Tuesday of the last week at Camp. They were very interesting and we received quite a thrill out of the experience of war without live bullets. We advanced in great shape, and it was at this time we put to actual use the knowledge we gained during the month.

On the 29th of July, we had our final review before General Upton, and in the afternoon of the same day we were busily engaged in turning in our equipment, and preparing to leave. Next day we left Camp early and after bidding goodbye to our many new friends, departed to our respective homes very much benefited by our month's stay and looking forward to next year's Camp. Louis G. Carmick, Jr., of Washington, D. C., was awarded the Scholarship to the University of Pennsylvania, being the best Blue student in Camp Meade this summer.

Many a fellow, who is sentimental about the ole swimming hole that was three miles from home, complains bitterly because he has to walk twenty feet to take a luke-warm shower.

FIELD ARTILLERY SONG

Over hill, over dale, as we hit the dusty trail
 And the caissons go rolling along
 In and out, hear them shout, counter march and right about
 And the caissons go rolling along.

In the storm, in the night, action left or action right,
 See the caissons go rolling along.
 Limber front, limber rear, prepare to mount, you cannoneer,
 And the caissons go rolling along.

REFRAIN

Then it's Hi! Hi! Hee! in the Field Artillery,
 Shout out your numbers loud and strong.
 Where e'er you go, you will always know
 That the caissons are rolling along (keep them rolling)
 And the caissons go rolling along. Bat-ter-y, Halt!

Nevin (returning from equitation)—“What kind of horse is this?”
 Stable Sergeant—“That's a draft horse.”
 Nevin—“No wonder I caught a cold.”

Officer in charge of grooming horses—“Groom by detail.”
 Swenson immediately began brushing out the horse's tail.

THE “75”

Oh, a mistress fit for a soldier's love
 Is the graceful 75;
 As neat and slim and as strong and trim
 As ever a girl alive.

For the sun of day turns fogged and gray
 And night is a reeling hell,
 When she swings the flail of the shrapnel's hail
 Or looses the bursting shell.

Walker to Lieutenant at mounted drill—“Do you think I can join the circus now?”
 Lieutenant—“Yes! you can ride a merry-go-round horse.”

Lieutenant—“We're going to gallop next.”
 Candidate—“I won't have to gallop, I'll just ride natural.”

Guard—“Halt! who's there?”
 Carmick—“Friend.”
 Guard—“Advance, friend, and be recognized.”
 Carmick—“Oh, you wouldn't recognize me. I've only been here a few days.”

Blue Candidate—“When should the command fire at will be given?”
 Lieutenant—“When the “Old Man” draws his sabre and begins to sharpen it on his breeches.”

BATTERY "A"

CAN YOU IMAGINE—

No roll call for reveille?
 Brechin taking his daily shower?
 First Sergeant forgetting to blow his whistle?
 Burgard working?
 No inspection at retreat?
 Nevin reporting for all formations?
 "Fat" Corbett with clean breeches?
 "Sleepy" Richards getting up early?
 Craighill with a full grown mustache?
 Muckle not playing the Victrola?
 Wood not in an argument?
 Conn in silence?
 McAninch accepting the theory of evolution?
 "Rip" Dorgan fully dressed at Reveille?
 Nevin and Muckle not up to something?
 "Red" Drumm not looking "hard boiled"?"
 Donaldson absent when any food is being served?
 Richards giving a command that can be understood?
 Kratzke late for chow?
 The top sergeant forgetting to get up in the morning?
 Swenson acting his age?
 Colbert without a letter from his Miriam?
 The Infantry beating the Artillery?

MARKSMANSHIP

The following men of Battery "A" received the First Class Bronze Marksman Badge for firing the automatic pistol. The percentages obtained are given below:

THE ATHLETIC PROGRAM

L. B. ELY

The main idea in the C.M.T.C. athletic program was to provide the students with whatever sports they wished. There resulted eighteen baseball teams, three soccer teams, twenty volleyball teams, and four teams each in indoor baseball and basketball. In addition coaching was given by competent coaches in boxing, wrestling, track and field events, football, tennis and swimming.

Another aim of the department was to get all the students into some game or other. For this purpose the office of the Director of Training allotted the entire afternoon to athletics for the Basics and part of each afternoon for three senior classes.

A third idea, one which in the Regular Army is at least co-equal with the first one, was to promote "esprit de corps". Company teams, fighting in friendly rivalry for league standings, develop the spirit so necessary in modern warfare, the spirit of team play, the desire to help the Company defeat whatever opposes it.

A fourth desire was to introduce to the students sports which are not as common in the schools, but which are splendid for physical development once acquaintance is made with them. Volleyball became very popular in this Camp, and a few score of the students claimed that soccer is one of the finest games there are.

Among the closest races of the season was the struggle between Battery "A", 6th F. A., and Company "B", 12th Inf. When the wagon soldiers met the doughboys they met their Waterloo. The result would have been different, they say, had not casualties laid low their pitcher just prior to this game.

Company "L" had a volleyball team which went undefeated through the season, as did Company "M". It is to be regretted that the final maneuvers prevented these two teams from meeting for which the Company "L" team felt invincible, the Company "M" team felt that they could beat 'em.

ATHLETIC TROPHIES AND MEDALS

PROGRAM

The athletic program of the summer training camps always has been and will continue to be its main feature and principal attraction. Being held in the month of July, just prior to the opening of the fall term of school, coaches have become interested in its possibilities for mid-summer training of football and track teams and their conditioning just before the annual fall grind. It means that those taking the training course get the jump of one month in the hardening process and are ready to jump at once into the more interesting part of team play. Fifty sunburned athletes with tough hides and hard muscles reporting for duty on the first day of school will make the most hard-boiled coach wiggle his ears with joy.

The athletic program at Camp Meade has been planned with just such a purpose in mind. During the morning the military program is carried out. An hour and one half are given for lunch and rest and then the athletic officers take charge. These officers are all letter men of colleges and universities and have coached for years. The older ones will direct; the younger ones actively participate. The first twenty minutes are given to the bayonet instructors for massed and individual instruction in bayonet combat, each student being dressed in undershirt, breeches and shoes, the lightest costume possible. From this field five hundred are sent direct to the swimming pool for forty minutes instruction in swimming and diving and "go as you please". Each student is obliged to take swimming lessons every third day and may "go in" every day. The pool accommodates two hundred and fifty men at one time. The water in this pool is changed daily. Qualified life guards and life savers are at the pool at all times.

THE CHURCH IN THE CAMP

IVAN C. MARTIN
Camp Chaplain

assisted by lay representatives of the Jewish Welfare Board, officiated. Rabbi Loeb of Washington, D. C., presided at three of these services.

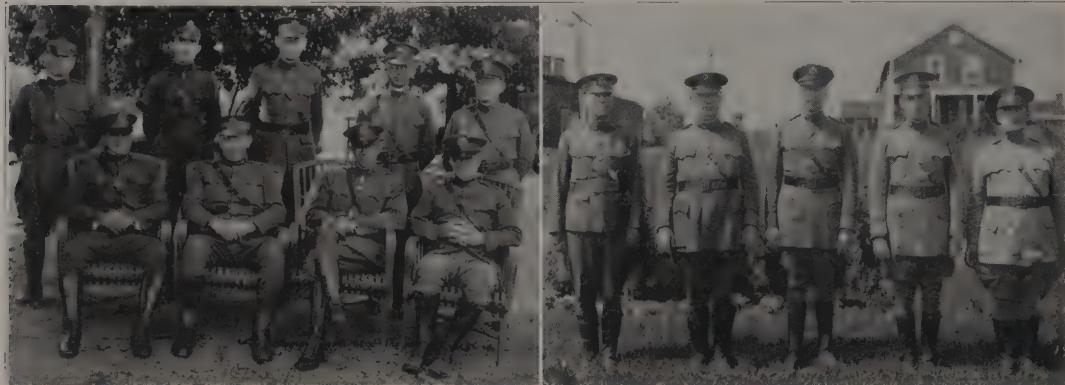

Services were held regularly each Sunday afternoon in the Camp Stockade, conducted by the Camp Chaplain or by such Reserve Chaplains as were available. These consisted of a song service, with a short scripture lesson and prayer. No effort was made to preach a sermon at any time. Out of a total of 60 prisoners in the Stockade, about 30% were present.

THE JEWISH WELFARE BOARD

PAUL SAFFRON

The CMTC's of the Jewish faith are very grateful to the Jewish Welfare Board for its co-operation in giving them an opportunity to attend Jewish services.

The Jewish Welfare Board has sent competent rabbins to lead in the services which

UNRUH, LEARY, RIPPLE, LINEWEAVER, STICK,
KAUFFMAN, HOLDEMAN, EDGE, HUMPHREYS

TAYLOR, COX, DAPP, SMITH, STICK

it has arranged at Camp Meade. The Jewish Welfare Board has published prayer books for the purpose of all services and had them distributed to all the Jewish boys.

Miss Bernstein, the hostess at the enlisted men's club was, previous to her appointment to the War Department, a Jewish welfare worker. Our Jewish CMTC boys thank her heartily for her great interest and good work that helped to make the Jewish services at Camp Meade a success.

The attendance of the Jewish CMTC boys has been astonishing for the short announcement given. The services were held in the Camp Meade Chapel on Friday evenings at 7 p. m. Home cooked fish was served, which was appreciated by all the Jewish boys.

FOUR BUSY SABBATHS AT THE CAMP CHAPEL

IVAN C. MARTIN, Camp Chaplain

With the departure of the last man wearing the Red, White and Blue hat cord, the busiest portion of the summer at the Camp Chapel comes to an end for 1925.

How full the days have been may be gleaned from the surprised exclamation of one Mother who visited the Chaplain with her son, and in the course of conversation asked the Camp Chaplain what services are held on Sunday. When she learned that the first service has been held at 6:45 in the morning, followed by another at 8, a third at 9 and a fourth at 10, and still another in the afternoon, she seemed to think that the religious work was just as strenuous as was the work during the week.

During the entire month of July every Sunday approximately 825 men attended the sessions of the Sabbath School, 1500 came to Mass at 8 in the morning, while great numbers made their confessions either on Saturday evening, or early on Sunday morning. At the several Protestant services, the attendance was again fully 1500 at each of the four services, and over 100 of the Jewish boys gladdened the heart of the Rabbi who came from Washington to minister to those of his faith who for the period were learning to be soldiers.

Eighteen Chaplains belonging to the Reserve Corps, in addition to the one Chaplain of the Regular Army, were on duty during the period. In addition to the time given to instruction in the duties of a Chaplain in the Army, these men, all busy pastors in their home cities, visited the men sick in the hospital and held services on Sunday.

STATION HOSPITAL

The Station Hospital is located on a slightly elevated plateau between Camp Meade proper and Camp Franklin. It is adjacent to the main cement roadway running through the Camps, and the site is surrounded by clusters of large, beautiful oak trees. The hospital buildings are of wood, two-story structures, reconverted from old temporary buildings erected during the War. The buildings are lighted by electricity and heated by a central hot water plant.

The equipment is new and modern. The private rooms and wards are spacious and airy, and are equipped with the regular medical department hospital equipment and are, therefore, comfortable and attractive. The hospital consists of an administration building, five wards, a kitchen and dining hall, a central heating plant, and a separate building, in which is quartered the medical department detachment.

THE SIGNAL COMPANY

When better Companies are organized the Signal Companies will have them. We have had an ideal Company this year for the reason that we have had the best officers that the country can produce, the best sports in Camp and the most intelligent men of the Third Corps Area. Though it has been the best Company at Camp Meade this year, it will be bigger and better than ever next year. Why? Because our Captain will be back, all our good men will be back and everyone of us will be a good advertisement for the Signal Corps.

According to the present plan two Companies will be formed, one for elementary students and the other for advanced students. Under the expert tutelage of our technical staff, which will be extended next year, more tactical and larger problems will be prepared for the course.

Later model telephone and radio equipment will be issued for CMTC use and more general communication work will be done.

Signal Corps duties are many and interesting, consisting mainly of sending military information by electrical, visual and other means. The result of any great battle may well rest with the efficiency of the Signal Corps. This branch offers opportunities of rapid promotion to men technically qualified. To those not so qualified the means to acquire a technical education is at hand in one of its schools. Graduates from the school at Camp Alfred Vail get a diploma and travel to all parts of the world to operate the Signal Corps' vast net of communications. They also learn much of photography, the use of homing pigeons and similar interesting work. In these days a successful man must pick his life work and then prepare himself for it. An enlistment in the Signal Corps affords the ambitious man a wide field of well-paid trades and the means to learn them. When his enlistment expires his training and experience in radio, telephony, telegraphy, etc., enable him to get an excellent job in civil life.

CAPTAIN S. E. REIMEL

ORDNANCE

The Ordnance Activities at Camp Meade are under the direction of Major E. H. Chase, Jr., Ordnance Department, who is Ordnance Officer for both Camp Meade and the Tank School. The functioning of the Ordnance Department at Camp Meade can generally be divided into supply and maintenance.

All matters pertaining to supply and storage of Ordnance material are under the direction of the Ordnance Property Officer, Captain B. R. Olmsted, and matters pertaining to maintenance under the direction of Captain Stewart E. Reimel. The Ordnance personnel consists of the 30th Ordnance Company (H. M.), with an authorized strength of eighty enlisted men, a detachment of ten enlisted men from the 15th Ordnance Company, Frankford Arsenal, Philadelphia, Pa., and twenty-five civilian employees.

The 30th Ordnance Company functions under the Ordnance Officer, Tank School, as a part of the Troops assigned to duty under the Commandant of the School. It's principal function is the maintenance of tanks. The Company operates five permanent shops in Franklin Cantonment in addition to being equipped with a complete mobile shop for carrying on its activities in the field.

The Ordnance Department is charged with the supply of arms, ammunition, targets, target material and range equipment to the various classes and branches of the Summer Training Camps and with the repair and maintenance of all arms and their accessories. In short, it supplies our soldiers with the tools of their trade—generally termed, Ordnance. The manufacture of the many thousands of separate ordnance articles requires the employment of practically every type of mechanical tradesman; consequently, this branch of the Army offers an excellent opportunity to the young man who earnestly desires to acquire mechanical experience of a higher order.

Owing to the necessarily varied kinds of work carried on by this department, as well as the many highly desirable stations where Ordnance men are constantly required for duty, experience shows that vacancies in the Ordnance branch are quickly filled by eager applicants. Promotion is assured to the young man who applies himself to his work, the very nature of which brings the Ordnance soldiers into intimate contact with the larger industries, in which they often find excellent jobs.

QUARTERMASTER

Camp Meade is very fortunate in having Major George Luberoff as Quartermaster. He always wears a smile and supplies all needs promptly and efficiently.

Major Luberoff equips and furnishes all things requisite for the Camp—office equipment, foodstuffs for the mess, uniforms, clothing, shoes, hats, rifles, belts, bayonets, ammunitions (ball and blank), mess kits, shelter tents, raincoats and haversacks.

The Major is prompt in supplying electricity and fixtures, the installation and upkeep of telephone systems, both in Camp and on the target range. He furnishes all transportation, motor and animal drawn; pays all travel, including gas.

In fact, all branches of the Camp—Medical, Post Headquarters and all—are under the care and supply of our genial quartermaster, Major George Luberoff.

Everyone is hoping that we shall have him at Camp Meade for every CMTC. Long live the Major!

FINANCE DEPARTMENT

The Finance office is organized for the payment of Regular Troops, Officers of the Reserve Corps, members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, candidates at the Citizens' Military Training Camp and civilian employees of the Camp. The Regular Troops are paid monthly on payrolls, usually on the last day of the month. The Regular Soldiers' monthly pay ranges from $21.00 for a private to $157.50 for a master sergeant. The Advanced Students of the ROT Camp are paid $21.00 per month while in training. Food and clothing are free as in the case of the Regular soldier.

THE 314TH INFANTRY

One of the unusual ceremonies that the CMTC Candidates were able to witness during their 1925 year was the presentation of colors to the 314th Infantry, 79th Division, Saturday, July 19.

During the last two weeks of the CMTC training, officers of the Regiment served with the 12th Infantry as instructors of the attached Citizens' units.

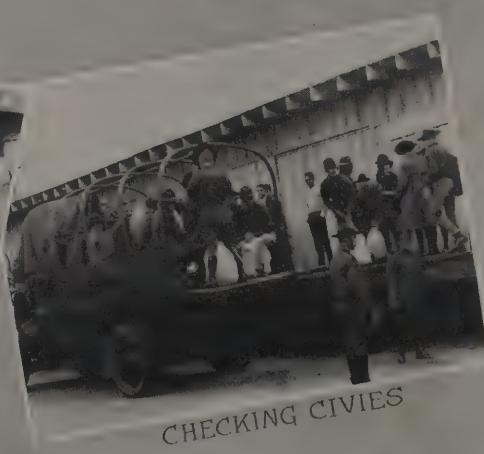

The 314th Infantry was assembled at Camp Meade in 1917 for training previous to its active service in the World War. Composed mainly of men from southeast Pennsylvania it received its baptism of fire at Montfalcon. In the Meuse-Argonne it was cited by General Pershing for bravery and efficient service and battle streamers were added to its colors.

The following are the officers who were attached to the CMTC units:

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT—Colonel W. S. Cornell, Medical Reserve; Major R. C. Parrish, Medical Reserve; Major E. M. Rossu, Dental Reserve; Captain C. A. Coll, Medical Reserve.
 HEADQUARTERS AND HEADQUARTERS COMPANY—Lieut. Colonel H. S. Duncan, Major T. H. Stillwell, Major R. B. Filbert, Major J. A. Davis, Major J. E. Dillenger, Major J. H. H. Van Sandt, Chaplain J. W. Kaufman, Major F. H. Long, Captain D. M. Holdeman, Captain F. A. Muhlenberg, Chaplain T. F. Ripple, Chaplain W. W. Edge, Chaplain W. F. Humphrey, 2nd Lieut. W. E. Homan, MD-Res. COMPANY "A"—Captain C. J. McIntyre, 1st Lieut. G. T. Kilgore, 1st Lieut. E. J. Pock, 2nd Lieut. J. B. Lutz, 2nd Lieut. L. E. Replogle.

Processing

STUDENT SOLDIERS START TRAINING

When Napoleon uttered his famous remark that an army travels on its stomach he probably had in mind something more substantial than lemonade.

To the 2,600 young men who registered at Camp Meade for the summer course in the CMTC, however, lemonade was the first taste of army life. From early morning on into the dust and dusk of evening a huge galvanized tub of lemonade did service for the thirsty youths who disembarked at the Camp railway station. Like a magic spring, it was constantly being filled and refilled so that every new trainload found a "flowing bowl" ready to initiate them into the rigors and pleasures of their thirty-day training period.

A large, unwieldy and heterogeneous group from cities and rural sections all over the Third Corps Area went through the metamorphosis of "processing" and came out soldiers—nominally, at least.

As soon as the youths arrived and had drunk their fill of iced lemonade they were taken by truck-loads to army warehouses. Here the great game began. Army officers in charge of the citizen soldiers are justly proud of this system of processing. It is typically American. In a way it signifies the three attributes for which Americans are known abroad—speed, efficiency and mass production.

As pigs are drawn through a Chicago packer's factory to come out sausages, so these youths are insinuated into one end of a long warehouse to come out the other end soldiers. In the process they are examined physically and fitted out, each with a uniform and complete camp equipment.

There is little dignity in the polyglot group of youths who are lined up dressed in their street clothes, each carrying a barracks bag and a registration card. But even this dignity is stripped from them when they lose their clothes, which were ordered stowed away in bags they carry.

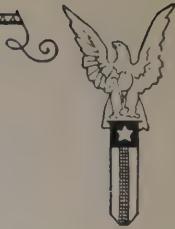

The first man appeared at the warehouse at 7:30 a. m. During the processing that started a half-hour later the average youth got through in less than an hour, while some were assimilated into the army in the record time of twenty minutes. Brigadier General LaRoy S. Upton, Commander of the Camp, supervised the work throughout the day. He pronounced himself satisfied with the appearance and conduct of the embryo marksmen.

The line of modern "Adams" winds itself slowly about the warehouse like the snake in Adam's garden. First it passes the scales, then the rows of dental experts, then the oculists, the nose doctor, the ear experts and others. At each of the "way stations" busy looking army clerks jot down marks on the registration cards.

Those examined must revolve their heads to see if there are any stiff neck muscles; they must balance on one foot while a medical examiner examines the other. The variety of "stunts" they must perform is limited only by the short time they have in the examination room.

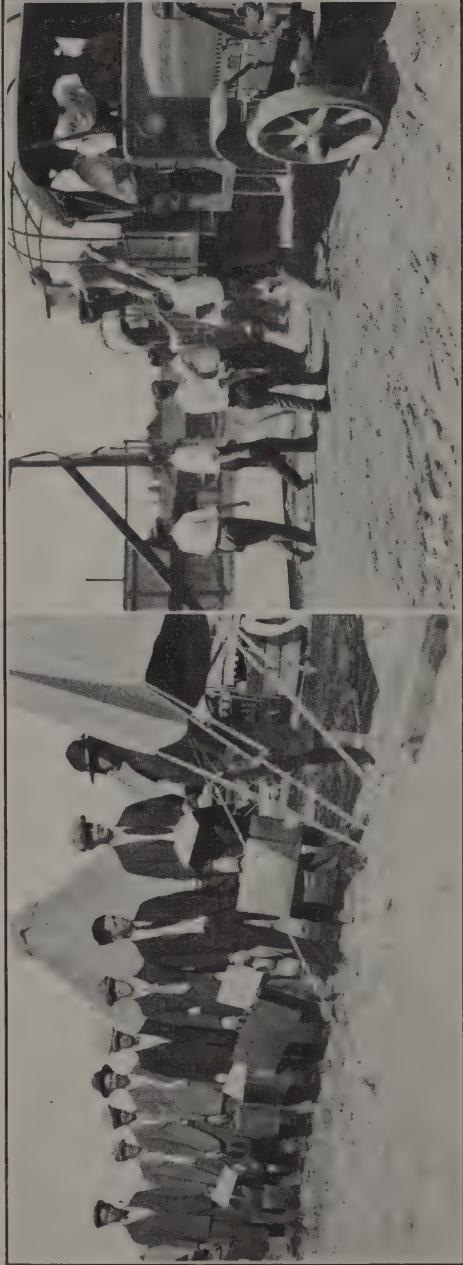

From the first warehouse, where they are examined, to the second, where they get their uniforms, the line of youths must pass over a one hundred foot exposed area. But a discreet officer-in-charge has put up a canvas wall at this point to spare the soldiers the stares of the crowds who traverse the thoroughfare near by. In the second warehouse, which is connected with the Camp commissary, the students got a complete uniform, including khaki trousers, shirts, a campaign hat, socks, belt, blouse and other paraphernalia necessary and incident to a thirty-day encampment.

Completely outfitted the students were taken in trucks to their respective tents where they soon learned to make up their bunks, to arrange their clothing neatly and to align their shoes under the bunk. Then began the installation of the characteristic army traits of neatness, cleanliness and orderliness. The first day was not warm but beautiful and cool.

During the first day of the 1925 CMT Camp, 2279 young men from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, were received, measured, weighed, examined physically, clothed, and turned out for a month's duty, the purpose of which is to make them better citizens of these United States.

THE SECOND DAY

The young men got up bright and early in fine form for their really first day of instruction. After a hearty breakfast of cantaloupes, cereals, ham and eggs and coffee, they were called out for massed calisthenics, instruction in the fundamentals of the soldier, and the correct position of the body so as to give the uniform a well set-up and military appearance. The men were arranged according to their height, all tall men and all small men so as to present a similar appearance. They were taught the military salute which has come down to us through centuries, being first used when people passing each other and wishing to show themselves friends and without weapons in their hand raised their right hands to each other.

The evening is filled with a general tryout of all kinds of athletics—boxing, wrestling, running, jumping, hurdling, baseball, volleyball, pole vaulting, throwing the disc and javelin, the hammer, putting the shot, etc. All the men took part in some form of athletics under the supervision of Regular Army officers and renowned athletes and all enjoyed themselves.

The evening was spent in the various hostess houses in getting acquainted. Briefly “a good time was had by all.”

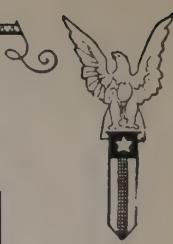

THE THIRD DAY

After the regular morning exercises students began the study of the manual of arms, the school of the squad. “Squad right!” “squad left!” could be heard all over the Camp. Special attention was given to the handling of the rifle and field equipment. Five minutes' rest in twenty-five minutes' work kept the boys fresh and alert. Everyone seemed eager to learn all about “this man's army”.

The 12th Infantry Regiment celebrated Organization Day. This Regiment was formed 64 years ago in 1861 and on July 3, 1866, took part in the heaviest fighting at Gettysburg; on July 3, 1898, the Regiment stormed the City of Santiago. The entire Regiment was paraded and reviewed by Colonel George E. Thorne on the parade ground. Over 1700 CMTC students were attached to the 12th Infantry Regiment in their training. These men showed great pride in their adopted Regiment. In the evening a baseball game was played between the 1st Battalion and the 3rd Battalion, 12th Infantry.

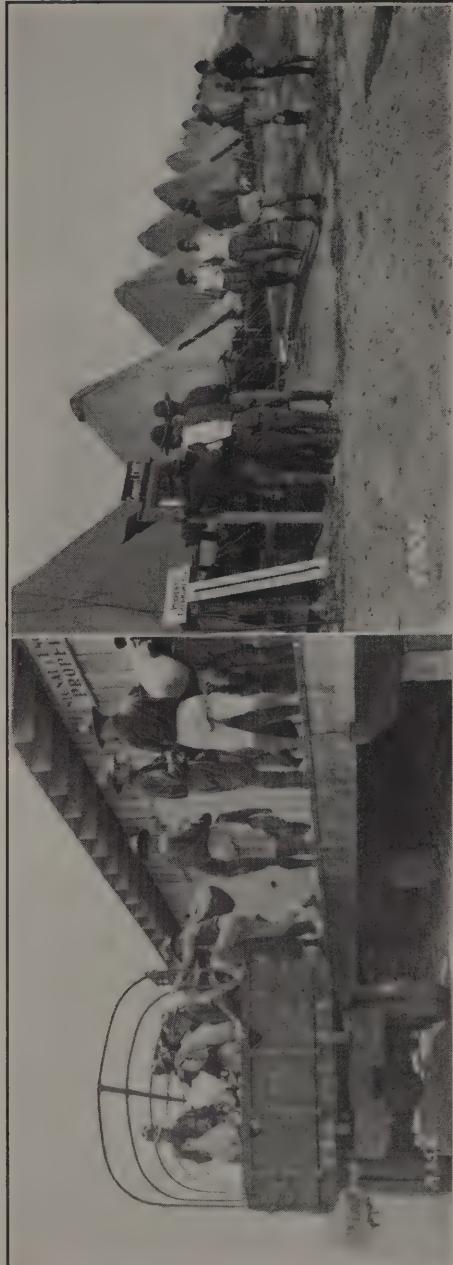

At 4:00 o'clock there was a splendid show and vaudeville given at the Liberty Theatre.

In the evening there was dancing in all the Hostess Houses. The CMTC students were invited to all these functions and seemed highly delighted with the way the 12th Infantry performed.

"TAKING THE OATH"

Early this morning all the young men were drawn up in formation while the 6th Field Artillery fired the 48 gun national salute. The men remained in ranks until 9:00 o'clock a. m.; then they marched to the Stadium in block formation. The program for the ceremonies began at 9:30 o'clock and was as follows:

- a. Formation of organizations.
- b. Salute and present to visiting dignitaries.
- c. Present arms for troops and salute for CMTC candidates.
- d. To the colors by field music, massed bands.
- e. Order arms.
- f. Address by Captain William S. Eley, public relations officer.
- g. Present arms for troops and salute for CMTC candidates.
- h. Star Spangled Banner, massed bands.
- i. Order arms.
- j. CMTC march off, followed by troops in reverse order of entrance, band playing "Stars and Stripes Forever".

All the troops were under the supervision of Colonel G. E. Thorne, Commander of the 12th Infantry, who also was master of ceremonies. Over 2000 Regular troops stationed at Camp Meade for summer training formed a hollow square in which more than 2600 CMTC students were assembled; the colors of all Regiments were massed in front of the grandstand. The army officers, foreign diplomats and society people of Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, Staunton and the surrounding communities attended as guests of the General Staff. The entire body of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps was in the grandstand.

The young CMTC students snapped to attention at the command of Colonel Thorne and saluted Brigadier General LaRoy S. Upton, Commander of Camp Meade. The General put the troops through a military drill and then brought them to attention while the Regulars "presented arms" and the students saluted.

The invocation was delivered by Chaplain Alfred N. Smith, the address by Captain William S. Eley, public relations officer, and the benediction pronounced by Camp Chaplain Ivan G. Martin.

The ceremonies closed with over 800 soldiers and visitors holding the "Salute to the Colors" while the massed bands played "The Stars and Stripes Forever".

On account of a large number of the CMTC boys coming from a distance they spent the day in Camp, some favored few received passes to the near-by cities. There were no entertainments or demonstrations.

FOURTH OF JULY ADDRESS

WILLIAM S. ELEY
Captain, Infantry, DOL

CAPTAIN WILLIAM S. ELEY

GENERAL UPTON, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Today we are celebrating the Declaration of Independence. This Declaration was adopted in Philadelphia one hundred and forty-nine years ago today, forming for the first time a more perfect union of the thirteen original colonies and announcing to the world the American "Bill of Rights".

The foundation of this wonderful document gave hope not only to the people of this country but to all the world. It inspired the "Minutemen of the Revolution". It had given courage to the soldiers at Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill, and later steadied the nerves of those at Valley Forge. It brought victory to this country.

The Declaration was received with great rejoicing by the Revolutionists. John Adams, then in Congress at Philadelphia, wrote to his wife that the Declaration of Independence ought to be annually celebrated as long as the nation lived "with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of the continent to the other."

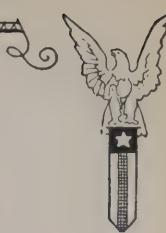

These celebrations on the Fourth of July have continued to the present with such parades and sports in commemoration of our Declaration of Independence.

Today, for the first time, on the Fourth of July, is an added feature, the Defense Test. It is a call to the manhood of the United States to answer "Here" for the future defense of their nation.

The declaration that you young men, as present day citizens, are making, may prove some day as vital as the Declaration of 1776. You are not only making a declaration, but you are living a declaration.

Here you will learn how to obey and having mastered this useful lesson you will have laid the foundation of personal experience on which you can learn to command. You will be taught obedience to the civil, as well as to the military code, for in this land the military is always subordinate to the civil law. Not the least valuable part of your training is your service in the ranks, performing the duties of a private soldier. Remember that the seemingly humble tasks are biggest. It was the Master of Men who said, "Greatest is he who serves". Work in the ranks alone can acquaint you with the feelings and capabilities of the soldier you may some day command. Remember that courage is the soldier's cardinal virtue, and courage is only obedience to the law of duty.

Before you young students today, who will become the real leaders in the future, there lies just as vast a field of endeavor as ever lay before young Americans. You will meet your Lexington green and Concord bridge and you must make many declarations.

This training should strengthen and develop the basic principles of American manhood. So take today the opportunities at hand; be strong and true, real American men. Your ideals will make the future United States of America the real leader among the nations of the world.

THE FIRST SUNDAY IN CAMP

At 7:00 o'clock a. m. the Protestant Episcopal Holy Communion was celebrated with Captain Alfred N. Smith in charge.

Roman Catholic Services at 8:00 o'clock were conducted by Chaplain Renshaw Cox.

At 9:00 o'clock, Sunday School was organized under the direction of Camp Chaplain Ivan G. Martin. 360 men listened to the lesson explained by Chaplain J. Monroe Stick.

At 10:00 o'clock the Union Protestant Services were conducted in the Camp Chapel with Chaplain Martin presiding. All five Chaplains took part in the union services at which a chapter from the Bible was read and two prayers were offered. Chaplain Charles Frederick Dapp, Pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, Philadelphia, delivered the sermon; the singing was in charge of Chaplain Stick. CMTA Student Donald Clark presided at the piano. Several hundred boys applied for certificates of church attendance to be sent home to their pastors and parents.

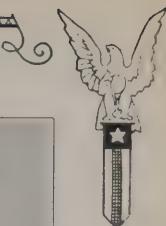

All four services were well attended. During the day many parents and friends were in Camp. They came to see their sons in uniform for the first time and to encourage them to "see it through".

During the afternoon the tennis courts, ball fields and the swimming pool were well patronized. Entertainment and singing services at the service clubs completed the first Sunday in Camp.

A large number of the students visited Baltimore, Annapolis and Washington today.

MONDAY, JULY 6TH, 1925

Bright and early the men were "on their toes" eager to learn. The work consisted mainly of formations, drills, lectures in sanitation and hygiene. Instruction in the use of the rifle proved of great interest to the young men.

Whites and Blues took up in addition to their other studies in the school of the soldier, leadership, map-reading and management of men. The Whites act as non-commissioned officers and the Blues act as officers of the student camp.

The School for Chaplains began its second week of class work with a conference of all five Chaplains in Camp present; army regulations, military law, international law, ceremonies and school of the soldier are the studies to be covered this week. Camp Chaplain Ivan G. Martin is in charge of the Chaplain's School.

Brigadier General Hugh A. Drum, of the General Staff, today inspected the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, Citizens' Military Training Camp students and the Regulars stationed at Camp Meade during the summer. He was received by Brigadier General LaRoy S. Upton, Camp Commander. General Drum presented to General Upton autographed baseballs bearing the signature of the Secretary of War, the Chief of Staff and himself. The baseballs will be used as prizes for athletic prowess shown by men in the CMTC.

At 4:00 o'clock this afternoon, the CMTC orchestra was organized.

Tonight the CMTC students held a dance in the hostess house which was well attended. Young ladies from Baltimore and Washington accompanied by chaperones were present.

AT A CMT CAMP—A HIKE THROUGH THE WOODS

TUESDAY, JULY 7TH, 1925

Because of unusually warm weather, training was not so intensive today. Rifles were issued to the Infantry candidates who were given instruction in their use. Every student learned how to take apart, put together, and clean a rifle.

Washington candidates of the CMTC Cavalry class today were given instructions in pistolmanship. This afternoon they were given instructions in the care of animals and equipment. Officers of the Third Cavalry from Fort Myer, Va., were their instructors.

The personnel officer reported today that there are only six CMTC men in Camp Meade from Baltimore. All the rest of Maryland and District of Columbia men are training at Fort Eustis, Va.

The series of the intra-camp baseball league was inaugurated this afternoon. Despite the warm weather nine different games were played, with Company "C", 12th Infantry leading, having won two games.

This evening there was an unusually good show at the Liberty Theatre. Five good acts from Keith's Vaudeville circuit, provided by the United States Army Motion Picture Service, were given. The vaudeville was followed by moving pictures.

At 9:30 p. m. a severe thunder storm followed by a heavy downpour of rain cooled off everything.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 8TH, 1925

The CMTC Students will always mark today as one of the most outstanding. They began to learn the use of the rifle which they had been handling for several days in order to get acquainted with it. Everyone was eager to know the correct way to shoot; they were instructed in the identical methods of rifle shooting as used by Regular Army soldiers. This work is essential because otherwise when it comes to the time when they must go on the range and actually shoot the rifles, they would not only be at a loss to know exactly what to do under the circumstances of wind and weather but also they would absolutely fail to make any kind of decent target score. After their first rifle practice lectures were given on the resources and development of our country. The men were told of the large agricultural resources, the copper mines, coal mines, waterways, and natural resources of our country. At noon they were marching back to their tents singing all along the way.

The afternoon was declared a holiday for the entire Camp—ROTC, CMTC and

CAMP THEATRE

Regulars. This rest came as a great relief because of the intense warm weather. New records for intense heat were made. All the men were given instructions in how to keep well during high temperature. Briefly they are as follows: frequent bathing, avoidance of the direct rays of the sun, refraining from violent exercise. Less conversation on the subject of heat was also advised.

At 6 o'clock this evening a record electrical storm and rain storm took place. For forty minutes the rain poured; tents occupied by both the CMTC Students and Regular Army men of the Twelfth Infantry were considerably flooded. Several tents were blown over by the storm. Water rose rapidly in the section of the Camp occupied by the Headquarters Company, CMTC and the Twelfth Infantry Regulars, driving the men from their tents. The water rose to a depth of three to five feet; literally hundreds of boys in bathing suits "had the time of their lives" rushing through the downpour of rain, tramping in the water and "carrying on", having a general good time. The torrid atmosphere was cooled, though there were occasional showers during the night. There was no great damage done and a great deal of real sport took place.

The Hostess Houses and Theater were not patronized tonight as the men were busy trying to find a dry spot in their tents.

THURSDAY, JULY 9TH, 1925

Promptly at 6 o'clock this morning the CMTC students were at attention. After mess they were given drill. At 8 o'clock it began to rain and the students were allowed to return to their tents and to restore order out of the chaos caused by the storm last night. Only a few men reported on sick call this morning. This evidenced the fact that last night's storm did no harm to the young men. All of the available men of the Regular Army were put on duty in fixing up the Company streets, making new drains and restoring the Camp to its former order.

At 11:00 all CMTC men were given lectures on citizenship, national defense, duties of the council of national defense and justice.

In the afternoon a series of boxing fights took place. Captain Mabbott was in charge of the boxing this year.

This evening there was a band concert by the 12th Infantry Band which proved of unusual interest and delight. The Hostess Houses were well patronized tonight.

BOXING BOUT

FRIDAY, JULY 10TH, 1925

Today began with excessive warm weather. The physical test gave the CMTC candidates a good sweat. However, the students showed remarkable progress. The Basics and Reds drilled practically all morning. The Whites and Blues took up in addition to their other duties map-reading, sketching and leadership. At 12:30 o'clock another downpour of rain caused a young flood which helped cool the "sands of the desert".

Regimental athletic officers arranged a program for the broad jump, high jump, throwing the hammer, discus and javelin. This proved new sport for many young men. Keen interest was shown in athletics this afternoon.

Owing to the heavy rain and the wet condition of the parade grounds the review scheduled for today was postponed.

SATURDAY, JULY 11TH, 1925

Bright and early this morning, the young men were "dolled up", all smiles in anticipation of the excursion to Mount Vernon. Everyone ate a hearty breakfast and over 700 CMTC candidates under the command of Captain Ditto assembled at the loop station, alighted the W. B. & A. electric trains which took them to Washington whence they went by boat to Mount Vernon. There was happiness and joy in every car; yells and songs were practiced. Great interest was manifested as the young men went over the ground where George Washington lived. The comical remarks made by these young men and the curious questions asked would have stumped the best comedian. The entire body of excursionists returned to Camp in high spirits at 4:30 o'clock. After a good dip in the swimming pool and showers almost the entire personnel of the Camp appeared at the Liberty Theatre tonight to see Tom Mix in one of his remarkable pictures.

This ended the second week of the CMTC with everything going fine.

SUNDAY, JULY 12TH, 1925

At 6:45 a. m., Protestant Episcopal Holy Communion was celebrated with Chaplain Alfred N. Smith in charge. Roman Catholic services were in charge of Chaplain Renshaw Cox. 9 o'clock Sunday School was under the direction of Chaplain J. Monroe Stick, who delivered the address and explained the lesson. At 10 o'clock, Union Protestant Services were in charge of Chaplain Martin; Chaplain Dapp read the Scripture lesson, Chaplain

Smith offered the prayer and Chaplain Taylor delivered the sermon. A large number of certificates of church attendance were signed. All the services were well attended.

The day was very warm. A large number of visitors were in Camp, more than on previous Sundays; fathers, mothers, sweethearts and friends visited the young men in Camp. During the afternoon the severest thunder storm of the season and a heavy rainfall visited the Camp. Fire resulting from a bolt of lightning destroyed the huge warehouse of the Camp Meade Salvage Company, causing an estimated loss of $45,000.

A large number of young men visited the Christian Endeavor Society in the Odenton Methodist Protestant Church this evening. Cooler weather prevailed during the night.

MONDAY, JULY 13TH, 1925

"The First Review for the CMTC."

After breakfast all the CMTC candidates assigned to the Twelfth Infantry policed up and looked their best. Promptly at 8 o'clock they marched to the parade ground, north of Portland Road, where they passed Colonel Thorne, Commanding Officer of the Twelfth Infantry, and his staff, in review. A very fine showing was made. Company "F" carried the Best CMTC Company banner much to the delight of the spectators. After the review a short rest was taken; then the various Battalions separated, some taking up machine gun instruction, others rifle practice over sand bags and all Companies were taught preliminary use of the rifle.

Because of three young floods last week, new drainage was installed to take care of future high water.

Tonight there was a dance in the Hostess House for CMTC students.

Thirty Reserve Officers reported for duty for the next twenty days.

TUESDAY, JULY 14TH, 1925

CMTC students were rated in their second week's work. The ratings as required by the board of officers were approved by General Upton.

The ratings subjects were: commands, 10 points; accuracy of guides, 5 points; clothing, 10 points; alignment, 10 points; manual of arms, 10 points; equipment, 10 points; military bearing and steadiness, 10 points; precision of execution, 25 points; cadence and steps, 10 points.

Evart K. Warner, Headquarters Co., 12th Infantry, received a large parcel post package of the original Reading Pretzels; a good time was had by all.

Tonight Liberty Theatre was filled to the end with a burlesque sent by Keith's Circuit.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 15TH, 1925

One hundred and eleven Reserve Officers of the various divisions from Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Lancaster, Philadelphia and Baltimore arrived at Camp Meade today for fifteen day's training with the CMTC candidates. They took charge of the citizen soldiers during the morning. This morning the CMTC students were completing their preliminary course in sighting targets prior to going on the range. The rest of the morning was spent in taking the official pictures for the Camp Annual by Companies.

At 12:00 o'clock, 1500 CMTC students took the annual trip to Annapolis, Maryland, and were shown about the city and naval academy and the various points of interest.

Half-holiday was declared for the entire Camp. Many officers and men visited the nearby cities. This evening the Editorial Board of the Camp Annual held its most important meeting and was photographed.

The Liberty Theater had a banner house tonight; after the moving picture there were five boxing bouts with CMTC men in the ring.

THURSDAY, JULY 16TH, 1925

Training today was straight infantry work. Cavalry and artillery continued covering the broader and more advanced types of training in their branches of work. Instruction in hygiene and sanitation, lectures on citizenship and diplomacy were completed. Steps were taken to organize CMTC Clubs, according to the various counties and cities, for the purpose of affiliating with the Military Training Camps Association. These clubs are designed to keep alive and to spread throughout the country the virtues of clean living, right thinking and the meaning of service to country and government.

Camp Meade today lowered its flag to half-mast for Student William C. Grebe, Company "I", 12th Infantry CMTC, who lived in Philipsburg, Pennsylvania. Grebe died last night at the station hospital. He was taken to the hospital in the afternoon. His parents were telegraphed immediately and his father arrived in Camp in time to see his son before he passed away. William Grebe was one of the most popular boys of his Company. Whenever there was a call for volunteers for games or special drills, he was one of the first to respond. Grebe was the first one in line for reveille and never skipped any part of his work. Chaplain Martin of the 12th Infantry conducted the funeral services from the Camp Chapel after which the body was shipped to the student's home. General Upton and the entire personnel of Company "I", together with many of the officers and families of the post, attended the services as a mark of respect to the deceased.

Preceded by the Band of the 12th Infantry playing the funeral dirge, all the CMTC students of Company "I", the parents of the boy, detachments of Regular soldiers from the 12th Infantry, and the pall bearers marched to the station. All along the line of march soldiers of the Army, hardened to the sight of death—veterans of Manila, Cuba and the Argonne—stood bareheaded while the funeral cortege marched by. Hands gave a snappy salute to the flag-wrapped body as it passed by on its way to the final resting place.

"Pennsylvania Day"

The entire CMTC personnel were "on their toes" today. All units were dressed up spick and span, and the yell "Ray, Ray, Ray, Pennsylvania" went up all over the Camp. The training today was spectacular in order to please the distinguished visitors from the Keystone State.

Among those present were: Honorable David F. Davis, Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania; Honorable J. Willis Martin, President Judge, Court of Common Pleas; Dr. E. C. Broome, Superintendent of Public Schools, Philadelphia; Harry Buse, Remington Typewriter Company; Franklin D'Olier, former National Commander American Legion; Dr. Henry S. Drinker, President Emeritus Lehigh University, Honorary President MTCA of the United States; Dr. Clarence P. Franklin; Charles S. Halsell, Gimbel Brothers;

C. S. Krick, Vice-President, Pennsylvania Railroad; Dr. Edward Martin; Rev. O'Hara, Secretary to His Eminence Cardinal Dougherty; Daniel Murphy, Murphy, Cook and Company; Theodore Rosen, Civilian Aide to the Secretary of War for Pennsylvania; J. R. Shepard, District Chairman, First District of Pennsylvania; David E. Williams, Jr., David E. Williams Coal Company; Gresham H. Poe, Civilian Aide to the Secretary of War for the Third Corps Area.

At noon, General Upton gave a luncheon to the visitors at the Officers' Club in the White House. After the luncheon the men were given a lecture explaining in detail the entire works of the Camp. The visitors were taken all over the Reservation. Among the features of the day was an address by the Hon. C. S. Krick, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He has a son in Company "I", 12th Infantry, CMTC. Mr. Theodore Rosen, Civilian Aide to the Secretary of War for the State of Pennsylvania, made a stirring address to the members of Company "I", 12th Infantry. He spoke of how, in 1917, he came to Camp Meade for training, then went across seas where he lost his right arm and left eye, with other scars on his face. A strong impression was left upon the minds of the young men. The visitors left at 3:00 o'clock from Odenton in C. S. Krick's private car for their homes.

This evening the Reserve Officers of the 314th Infantry gave a dance in the Civic Centre Officers' Club. There was also a Scabbard and Blade banquet this evening in the ROTC mess hall. This club is composed of college men who are cadet officers in the ROTC.

SATURDAY, JULY 18TH, 1925
"Track and Field Day,"

This was the big day for athletics. Everything was well planned for the annual ROTC and CMTC field meet, which took place this morning. The athletes of both organizations were on their toes and in the pink of condition.

Following the athletic and track meet the Regimental Colors for the 314th Infantry, 79th Division were presented. During the afternoon there was a horse show by the crack riders of the Third Cavalry Division from Fort Meyer, Virginia, the showplace of the Army. Many of the students who had good behavior cards left for week-end trips.

TANKS IN ACTION
SUNDAY, JULY 19TH, 1925

The usual church services were held this morning. Chaplain Leary conducted the Catholic services, confessions at 7 a. m. and Holy Communion at 8 o'clock. Chaplain Martin delivered a sermon on "What a young man ought to know" to the largest attendance of young men ever assembled in Camp. Chaplains Holdemann, Humphreys, and Stewart conducted the services at 10 o'clock. Chaplain Stick visited Fort Eustis today and delivered the sermon at a large open air service. He also visited and spoke to the men at Langley Field and Fort Monroe. There were many visitors in Camp. An unusual number of lunch parties made the day pleasant for a large number of young men. Tonight there were singing contests both in hymns and popular songs.

MONDAY, JULY 20TH, 1925

Today began with great snap because all men were ordered to Admiral Hill for a demonstration. CMTC students, ROTC students and many visitors were seated on the hillside watching the demonstration by the 3rd Cavalry Division and the 6th Field Artillery. Both these organizations staged spectacular charges, retreats, firing, etc. For part two of the demonstration, the students and visitors moved to the east side of the hill where the

RIFLE RANGE AT CAMP MEADE

Infantry and Tank Corps gave a most vivid example of a real attack upon the enemy. The firing at long distance targets proved very interesting. All of the spectators were thrilled by the machine gun demonstration, although altogether too many balloons were missed. The greatest thrill of the entire demonstration came when the Headquarters Howitzer Company, CMTC students, with their 37 mm. mortars, hit the targets.

Among the distinguished visitors at Camp today were Lieut-Colonel J. Franklin Bell, Commissioner of the District of Columbia, and Major W. E. R. Covill of the Engineer Corps, U. S. A.

During the afternoon final preparations were made for the students to go on the range tomorrow. The CMTC dance was well attended tonight. Mrs. Wilson, president of the Service Star Legion, Baltimore, deserves special credit for the fine young ladies she brings to Camp for the dances.

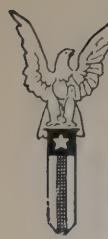

TUESDAY, JULY 21ST, 1925
"On the Range"

Four companies, 12th Infantry, began target practice on the range today. For many it was their first experience. However, they proved themselves good marksmen and unusually high scores were made. The weather was favorable.

This afternoon defense contests were engaged in.

The Commanding General LaRoy S. Upton and staff gave a reception and dance to all the reserve officers of the various organizations attached to training at Camp Meade this summer. There were beautiful decorations of pine trees interspersed with red, white, and blue balloons giving the hostess house the appearance of a beautiful pine forest. There was color given to the party by some of the officers being in white duck uniform, others in full dress, still others in tuxedo and a few in their O. D. These parti-colored uniforms together with the magnificent gowns of the ladies made a picturesque gathering. The unanimous decision was that it was the best reception and dance ever given at Camp Meade.

The usual Tuesday night program of Keith Circuit performers was given at the theatre.

Learning How To Shoot

WEDNESDAY, JULY 22ND, 1925

After the rain of yesterday afternoon, today was cool and clear. The second group of CMTC students of Infantry went on the rifle range while the Cavalry and Artillery CMTC students went on the pistol target range.

This afternoon, a large number of students volunteered to go on the range to qualify for marksmen and sharpshooters.* This is considered very commendable because of the fact that every Wednesday afternoon is declared a half-holiday. Parents of boys from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh visited the Camp today to see their sons on the range. The swimming contest this afternoon went merrily on during a heavy downpour of rain lasting almost two hours. It was good weather for ducks and the CMTC students in the contest went through it regardless of the heavy downpour of rain.

This evening the ROTC gave their final reception and dance.

After the movies tonight there were 12 rounds of boxing, only CMTC students participating. The boxing was exceptionally good and the rounds were longer because there was a draw.

THURSDAY, JULY 23RD, 1925

Bright and early the students went on the range for their finals. The weather being clear and cool. There was unusually good scoring. The director of plans and training as well as the entire organization conducting the range merit commendation for the manner in which the work was accomplished. There were no accidents or mishaps of any kind. On the way home the boys were singing and apparently very happy. This afternoon they were engaged in the practice of marching with the pack, putting up pup tents, and making and breaking camps. Company "A", 12th Infantry, was holding the banner for the best CMTC Company for the past three days. Competition between the various units was keen.

Major General Clarence C. Williams, Chief of Ordnance of the United States Army, and other army officers inspected the Camp today.

Field maneuvers of the Thirtieth Ordnance Company were reviewed. The Company was engaged in a week's field work at the Camp.

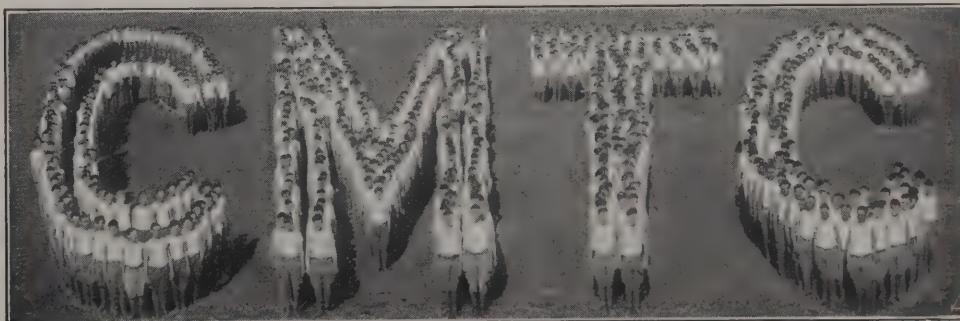

Among the visitors were Brigadier General John W. Joyes, assistant Chief of Ordnance; Major Charles T. Harris, Jr., executive assistant to the Ordnance Department; Major Carl A. Wardmann, chief of the Maintenance Division, all of Washington and Major Harry R. Kutz, Ordnance officer for the Third Corps Area, of Baltimore.

The 12th Infantry Band rendered a delightful concert in front of the officers' club tonight. All the hostess houses were well attended by the young men and the various musical clubs. The Glee Club is practicing faithfully for its concert Saturday.

FRIDAY, JULY 24TH, 1925

Efficiency tests were given the young men today; special drills and practice marches were the orders. The Regular Army, Infantry, Field Artillery and Cavalry held their final review for the benefit of the CMTC students and many visitors.

There was an entertainment in the Hostess House when three different CMTC orchestras played in competition. Some very fine music training was reflected. The Glee Club gave its final concert. All told, it was a very delightful day for all in Camp.

SATURDAY, JULY 25TH, 1925

This morning all the Infantry Companies were on their toes bright and early for the competitive Best CMTC Company. The close order formation drills were well executed considering the short time the men had been in training. The flag for the best CMTC Company was awarded to Company "A" 12th Infantry. This being the last Saturday for the CMTC men in Camp, a large number were given passes to visit Baltimore, Annapolis and Washington. The boxing contest tonight received considerable interest.

SUNDAY, JULY 26TH, 1925

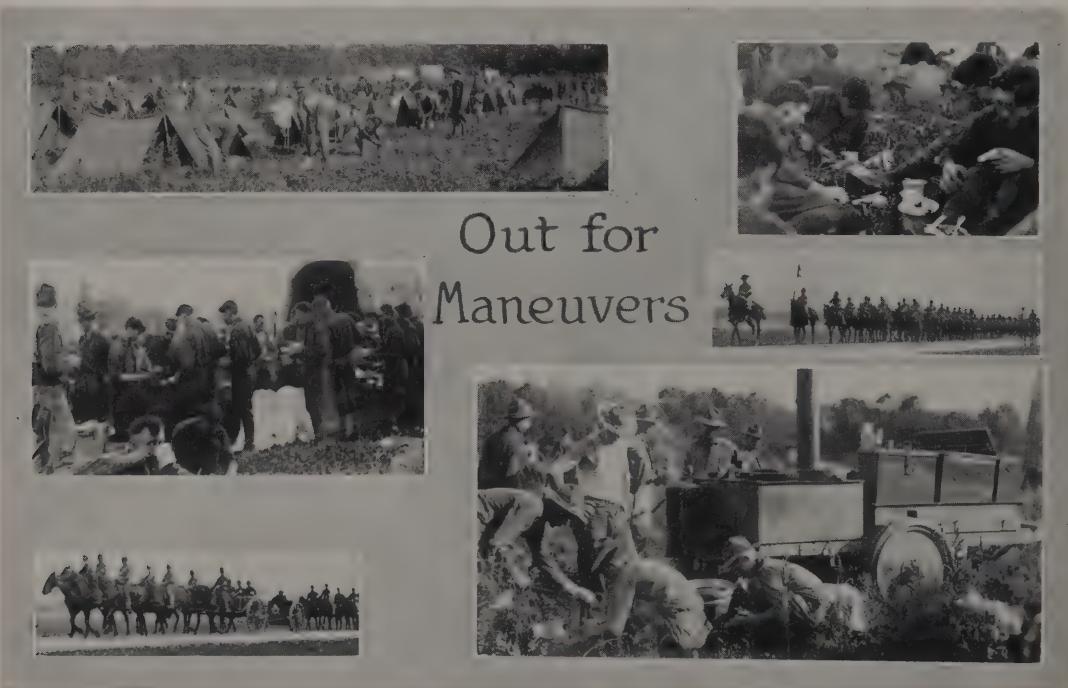

Church services this morning were the largest attended since the Camp opened. Chaplain J. F. Leary conducted the Catholic confession at 7 a. m. followed by the Holy Communion at 9 o'clock. All units headed by their respective bands marched to the Civic Center for the 10 o'clock Protestant service which was conducted by Chaplains Line-weaver, Unrue and Martin. The Holy Communion was celebrated. There was marked spiritual atmosphere in all the religious services of the Camp this evening.

There were over six hundred visitors in Camp, from all over Pennsylvania. Some parents came to remain until the close of Camp to take their sons home with them in the family automobile. Miss Bernstein had been very active in her hostess work. She had a bus filled with fifty young ladies to visit the Camp today. These young ladies had no difficulty in finding escorts and helped to give the Camp the appearance of home-life. This evening there were concerts in the hostess houses. Today will go down in history as one of the most interesting Sundays Camp Meade ever had.

MONDAY, JULY 27TH, 1925

Final tests in all activities of the students were given today; drilling, marching, school of the soldier, the care of the rifle, and a general review of lectures were given. In the final competition drill the best CMTC banner went to Company "B" for the remainder of the Camp. Company "A" held this banner for the greatest length of time.

All units were polished up for their final equipment inspection and arrangements made for the great "battle" between two CMTC armies. After a good meal promptly at 1:30 the Armies marched from their respective billets. Six thousand troops including 2288 CMTC students went into the field. By five o'clock that day they reached their destination, pitched their tents and patiently waited for the early drill and evening meal. With sentinels on duty, scouts in the field, outposts planned, the two armies closed the day, eager for the battle tomorrow.

Out for Maneuvers

The theatre, the hostess houses, the post exchanges, the E & R Building, et al, were all closed. All lights were out in the center of Camp.

TUESDAY, JULY 28TH, 1925
"Maneuvers"

Promptly at 6:30 the bugle sounded all over the reservation. After a good breakfast the divisions' march was begun by both armies. All morning the guns roared, airplanes swooped over the field and the Cavalry raided enemy posts.

Before the sun had climbed to the meridian the CMTC dinner had been prepared, so it mattered little to the men that dinner hour caught them at a crucial point of the "war". The "Red" army attacking Meade and primed for a conquest of Baltimore had been put on the defensive by the overpowering numbers of the "Blue" army. The battle had reached a crisis. The next ten minutes should have told whether Baltimore was to fall into the hands of the enemy for the first time in its history. But the next ten minutes so far as the battle was concerned never came. The city was saved. The dinner siren sounded and a number of yellow smoke rockets were sent up. This was the prearranged signal to stop hostilities. It caught both sides preparing new attacks and massing all the modern engines of destruction against each other. And so the great battle to subject the Free State to hostile domination ended as indecisively as it began. The umpires, however, said that because of the "Blue's" numerical superiority it probably would have won the tactical advantage. Colonel Clenard McLaughlin was chief umpire. Brigadier General LaRoy S. Upton, Commander of the Camp, reviewed the battle.

By 12 o'clock the mess halls were full and all the students were in their respective seats.

This evening, a large majority of the men kept to their bunks for several hours of sleep. Tonight was the last meeting of the Editorial Board of the "DEFENDER". There was a well patronized CMTC dance and general merriment all over Camp. The impression was that everyone enjoyed the maneuvers.

GENERAL UPTON AND AIDES-DE-CAMP

WEDNESDAY, JULY 29TH, 1925

This morning was the final polishing up of all equipment and spirits reigned high because it was the final review for the CMT. Headed by the 12th Infantry Band they were marched out to the parade ground. The Sixth Field Artillery Band led the 2nd Division. After all the units were assembled in formation on the parade ground, forty-eight young men who received commissions as Second Lieutenants, Reserve, and all the men who won medals for distinguished services were brought to the front by Captain Copeland and presented to Brigadier General LaRoy S. Upton. He addressed the distinguished young men, after which Captain Eley and his assistant distributed the commissions and pinned on the medals. The honor men were returned to their units. Then came a final CMT review, passing before Brigadier General LaRoy S. Upton. Among the distinguished visitors were Colonel Oliver H. Dockery, Jr., Officer in Charge CMT affairs, Corps Area Headquarters, and Major Culberson. The Regular Army men were seated on the hillside enjoying the review while many automobiles with guests from far and near were lined all along the edge of the parade ground. This evening the young soldiers for a month turned in their uniforms, received back their civilian clothing, were given their travel pay and were allowed the freedom of the Camp for the rest of the evening; there was much hilarity and fun.

THURSDAY, JULY 30TH, 1925
"Goodbye"

At 4 a. m. the CMT boys were lined up for breakfast; at 5 o'clock there was noise on all the streets of the Camp. Hilarity reigned supreme. The men were given their discharges and then formed in groups and marched to the respective stations; where they entrained for home. With few exceptions every boy was at his home before midnight. While the men were boarding the trains, both the 12th Infantry Band and the 6th Field Artillery Band furnished music. Quite a few young men went to their homes by automobile with their parents this morning. Thus came to a close one of the most successful CMT Camps ever held.

CHAMPION CMTCA RECRUITER WINS VALUABLE PUPPY

Because he sent more men to the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Camp Meade than anyone else in the Third Corps Area, William McAdoo of Philadelphia was awarded a valuable German police dog puppy donated by Captain Charles J. Mabbutt of the Baltimore recruiting station.

McAdoo was active in the campaign to obtain recruits to the summer camp and several hundred Philadelphians are said to have listened to his arguments in favor of military training with such interest that they made the pilgrimage to Camp Meade.

The presentation was made by Brigadier General LaRoy Upton, in command of the Citizens' Camp.

Captain Mabbutt, widely known army athlete and strong man, has raised a number of fine police dogs from Frenchie, his prize female. Meike, the puppy presented to McAdoo, is three months old and is considered an unusually fine specimen. Captain Mabbutt was recently offered more than $1000 for Frenchie, who has been trained to perform many tricks.

Frenchie is considered by experts to be one of the best trained German police dogs in America, ranking with Strongheart, Rin Tin Tin or Peter the Great. She has been mascot of the Third Corps Area football team for the last three years and is well known throughout the states of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. She will be present at the CMTCA during the next summer and will do her bit by demonstrating her high state of training in public and private exhibitions. Records of her registry in the American Kennel Club together with those of the sire, Duke of Hampshire, accompanied the puppy presented to the winner. Frenchie is the inseparable chum of Captain Mabbutt. Her mother, one of the trained dogs used by the Germans, was wounded in the shoulder during the American advance into Germany and was captured by Captain Mabbutt and Lieutenant Wilcox. Frenchie was one of the litter born after her capture.

My dear Mr. McAdoo:

I send you herewith picture taken of Captain Mabbutt and the prize Police Dog which you have won, published in a Baltimore paper.

I take this opportunity to congratulate you upon your success in winning this valuable prize and to thank you the excellent work which you accomplished in assisting us in the matter of CMTCA recruiting in your home city. Philadelphia certainly has reason to be proud of the sending such a large number of its fine upstanding men to the CMTCA this year and we certainly do not overlook young gentlemen like yourself who contributed so much to the success of the campaign there.

I trust that the dog will grow and prosper and soon develop into a fitting companion and a happy reminder of your experience and valuable association with the CMTCA. I also hope that you will return to Camp Meade next summer with your prize dog along as a CMTCA Mascot, the latter suggestion has been offered by Captain Mabbutt, the donor of the prize.

With best wishes, I remain

Very sincerely yours,

FAREWELL TO THE CMTC

The Editors of the CMT Camp Annuals have assigned to me the duty of saying a word of farewell to the CMTC Boys of 1925.

Our duties of procurement here at Corps Area Headquarters have more to do with saying howdy-do and welcome than with the sadder function of saying good-bye. But when all concerned can part with a consciousness of earnest effort and duty faithfully performed, it is really not hard to bid each other farewell.

Our CMT Camps for 1925 have been a wonderful success in every respect. We enrolled an unusually high class of young men in the Camps and the Camp Commanders, with their efficient Staffs and hard-working Assistants have ably done the rest. From all accounts, the 1925 CMT Camps have been the most successful and popular ever held in the Corps Area: It has been a happy termination of a healthy and profitable month and it is sincerely believed that the excellent students of 1925 will be anxious to come back next year and give the Camp Commanders a larger proportion of "trained veterans" of the CMTC to make next year's Camps bigger and better than ever before.

To the thousands of young Americans, who by their soldierly conduct and gentlemanly behavior have made our CMT Camps such a wonderful success, we say "Good-Bye" and express the hope that all may return next year to resume the interesting experiences and renew the happy friendships with which our Camps have been so abundantly blessed.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

The young men of America have always shown patriotic devotion to their country in time of stress. They have an opportunity today of preparation for service in time of peace. The Government has established the Citizens' Military Training Camps, which are essentially schools in citizenship. They are conducted by the War Department, which alone has personnel sufficient to give the various types of training offered in them. They are administered by selected officers of the Regular Army, the National Guard and the Reserve Corps, under a discipline well adapted to a plan of voluntary civilian training.

These camps are an essential in the plan of national security. They promote obedience to law and respect for the institutions of a well-ordered society. Young men are helped to physical health, mental vigor and moral excellence. Social understanding and democratic feeling are developed; love and reverence for the flag are the natural outcome of the training. Courtesy in act, sympathy in feeling, tolerance in thought, are the ideals.

Recognizing the great good which comes to Government and to people from the Citizens' Military Training Camps, I hope that each year an increasing number of young men may take advantage of the opportunity which is afforded them.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

"How fast will it go?"

IN THE early days of automobiles, people asked one question: "How fast will it go?"

As time went on, people assumed that a good automobile would make good speed. They looked for an all-round car that would run swiftly and smoothly and silently and economically.

We are still in the early days of radio. People are still inclined to ask: "How much distance will it get?"

It is time to assume that a good radio will get good distance, to look for an all-round set that will get distance and tone and volume and selectivity and clear reception.

Every Atwater Kent Radio Receiving Set and Speaker is that kind. It sacrifices no one quality to over-emphasize another. The Atwater Kent is the radio of today—and tomorrow. It is the all-round set.

Studebaker's War Record

*—a bright spot in the Corporation's history,
a shining example of disinterested service*

Studebaker was the first automobile manufacturer—if not actually the first manufacturer in the country—to offer its plants to the Government for war service.

The officials and principal executives of the Studebaker Corporation of America throughout the war devoted themselves assiduously to the expedition of U.S. Government orders in preference to everything else.

War contracts with the Government, amounting to $30,979,416, were accepted and carried out, though the business was commercially unattractive. It meant a serious curtailment of automobile production—only 18,270 Studebaker automobiles were built in 1918 against 150,000 in 1923. It meant a serious reduction of profits—a cut from the normal 10% to less than 5% on sales.

But Studebaker voluntarily met the situation and concentrated its energies on the necessary tasks. We built military tractors, escort wagons, ambulances, tank wagons, excavators, artillery wheels, track link assemblies, wheel hubs, shell parts, etc. We made ambulance harness, cavalry bridles, knife scabbards, etc. We invested $4,250,000 in 1918 for machinery and plant facilities to forge and machine 155 mm. shells at the rate of 4,000 per day.

In addition, the Corporation subscribed for $5,000,000 of Liberty Loan Bonds and $2,990,750 of Victory Loan Bonds, while employees' subscriptions amounted to another $3,000,000.

Studebaker considers its war record the brightest spot in the Corporation's history. We realized less than our normal profit from war business. But we neither expected nor wanted high profits. It has never been the Studebaker policy to seek unreasonable profits, even in the most prosperous times.

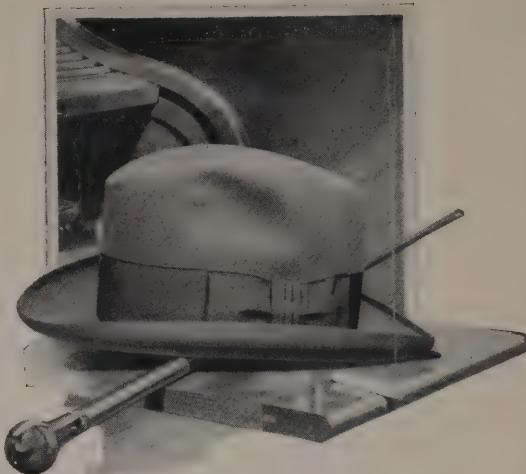

Today Studebaker is building quality-quantity cars on a "one-profit" basis—and selling at prices many hundreds of dollars lower than any other cars of comparable quality. Every Studebaker is a sound automobile investment. It represents the maximum intrinsic value per dollar of price paid by the purchaser.

WORLD-WIDE Good WILL

The United States Supreme Court has defined Good Will as "the disposition of a pleased customer to return to the place where he has been well treated."

Good Will is also the disposition of a customer to recommend a satisfactory product to his neighbors and friends.

It can be created by the printed word only in so far as that word reflects the integrity of the institution behind it.

Good Will is admittedly the most valuable asset that any business can possess. And no organization has so impressive a reason to appreciate the magnitude of its value as Dodge Brothers, Inc.

This value—this unprecedented and world-wide Good Will—is founded on a few old-fashioned principles of good faith and good workmanship which the world has come to associate with Dodge Brothers name.

Building ever better and better, Dodge Brothers have simply earned the trust and friendship of the public by consistently fulfilling public expectations.

JEWETT COACH $1260

Its New Coach Ideas Have Won Thousands

Already, thousands have bought Jewett Coach—the greatest Jewett ever built.

They have bought because it's the finest Coach ever designed—and because its superior qualities can be seen and demonstrated.

Jewett Coach is a study in smartness—a marked departure from the "box look" heretofore associated with the name Coach. Gracefully rounded corners and back—double belt moulding—newer lines and truer lines and truer harmony than you've ever seen in a Coach. And we finished it in colorful, permanent lacquer to add distinctiveness.

*Price F.O.B. Detroit, tax extra. Paige-Lockheed 4-wheel brakes
at slight extra cost*

Jewett has introduced a new type of upholstery in the Coach—an ideal combination of beauty and wearing quality. Jewett Coach is first with quality upholstery.

And Jewett built this Coach for five. There's plenty of room to relax to any careless riding position. Long drives will leave you fresh and ready to go again. Thousands have bought Jewett Coach because it has abundant roominess.

Jewett Coach will outperform any car within $500 of its price. Its riding—steering—driving qualities will amaze you. See Jewett Coach—drive it yourself before you buy any Coach or any enclosed car. You will pay dearly for its equal.

Packard motors drove the giant Navy dirigible Shenandoah on its record-breaking flight of 8100 miles.

Packard motors enabled the sea-plane P N-9 to nearly double the previous world's record for non-stop sea-plane flight by traveling 2230 miles in 28 hours, 35 minutes, 27 seconds—with a starting load of nearly ten tons.

A standard Packard marine motor drove Rainbow III 1064 miles in 24 hours, a distance greater by 276 miles than any boat of any kind or size ever covered in one day.

Packard's quarter century of experience in the design and manufacture of motors is available to all in the Packard Six and the Packard Eight.

THE HUPMOBILE EIGHT

Ocean to ocean, at top speed all the way! Given a clear road, that is what you could do with the Hupmobile Eight. You could stand it and the car would welcome it. That's the kind of a car it is. Drive it 50 miles an hour and try to recall, if you can, its like for superb riding. These are some of the things you'll vainly seek anywhere but in the Hupmobile Eight. They are some of the things you will want the moment you know how much they mean in better, easier, more satisfactory motoring.

The Hupmobile Eight Roadster is unusually well equipped with the most desirable Roadster features. The rear deck conceals a folding rumble seat which, when in position, affords comfortable, safe space—with ample leg room—for two additional passengers. The top is so arranged that it can easily be removed, and the back curtain can be taken off at will, so that the rear seat occupants are not isolated from those in front. Even with the rumble seat in use, a large door in the right side of the body gives access to a roomy luggage space.

There are four body types on the Eight, not excelled within $1000 of their prices in beauty, finish and equipment. Five-passenger Sedan, Four or Two-Passenger Coupe, Touring Car and Roadster. Equipment includes balloon tires, bumpers: front and rear, snubbers, transmission lock, automatic windshield cleaner, rear-view mirror.

Hupmobile four-cylinder cars, in a complete line of popular body types, at prices which make them the outstanding value in their field.

Introducing INDARIO Florida

WHICH MAN AND NATURE WILL COMBINE TO MAKE

America's Most Beautiful Home Town

The Oval Basin, Indrio's proposed salt water bathing casino. Other recreational facilities will include an 18-hole golf course, tennis and croquet courts, and bridle paths

PICTURE a pine and palm clad slope on Florida's sun-drenched East Coast—60 miles north of Palm Beach on the Dixie Highway and Florida East Coast Railway. From its crest one looks down on the Indian River, a stretch of shimmering sea water separated from the Atlantic only by a narrow strip of tropical jungle land.

Game fish abound in these nearby waters and wild fowl are plentiful. Sandy beaches and a rolling surf invite the bather. In summer cool breezes sweep in from the sea, while winter days are made balmy by the Gulf Stream.
